Mussolini's New Job
Flights from Prohibition
Books on the Index
China Orders Airplanes

—BY ARTHUR BRISBANE—

AT GENOA bombs blew a hole 15 feet square in one of the royal palaces. Three other blasts attacked car barns and factories. One hundred arrests were made immediately although the origin of the bombing is unknown.

The attack on a royal palace would indicate Communist activity. The bombing of factories, under Fascist control, might indicate revenge for recent attacks on churches and monasteries.

The dynamiter, as England learned through years of experience, is hard to handle.

It will be interesting to see how Mussolini will deal with him.

THE POST-GATTY AIRPLANE started to go around the world in 10 days. If the plane had not been bogged on landing in mud of a Siberian village, the trip might have been made in eight days.

Flights across the ocean now attract comparatively little attention. Three such flights may start this week.

FOR THE PROSPEROUS class the problem of prohibition and the uncertain quality of bootleg supplies will be solved by the flying machine. Canada or Bermuda will be only two or three hours distant and before long, week-end trips to Europe will be popular. Then the government will worry about the amount of American money spent abroad, as Ireland used to worry about landlords spending their rents in England.

THE WHITE HOUSE denies, without allowing any definite quotation, rumors about relaxation of restrictions against beer. All hope abandon, you that crave for beer, the substance of it, unless you have a reliable bootlegger with ale really made in Canada.

It was hardly to be believed that the administration would trifle with the prohibition situation before the 1932 campaign.

Meanwhile, the Wickersham commission goes out of existence tomorrow, having spent much public money for nothing. It reminds you, in its farewell, of the disappointing firecrackers that only fizzle. A commission is useful to relieve the head man of responsibility, but rarely produces results.

THE CATHOLIC CHURCH, through the congregation of the holy office, has placed on the index of prohibition books four by the French philosopher Leroy, teacher at the College of France. Leroy says it is impossible to demonstrate the existence of God or to prove any difference between the Creator and things created. He denies that God created the soul. In the light of modern knowledge that one man affirms or denies is not important. Nobody ever saw electricity, although we see sparks and lightning flashes and the burned bodies of criminals that electricity has killed. No one knows what it is.

IT IS IMPOSSIBLE to prove the existence of many things that we now exist, and condemnation of Professor Leroy's books is interesting only because Leroy declares himself an ardent Catholic.

There was a time when the index of forbidden books was valuable to men of science as a catalog of new ideas, all new ideas, including the suggestion that the earth goes around the sun, being at one time forbidden. That is changed now, and, unlike some of the more backward Protestant teachers, the Catholic church now allows the teaching of evolution theories in its universities.

Children from Catholic schools are allowed to visit the Museum of Natural History, which contains magnificent demonstrations of the

GOV. WHITE TO GET APPEAL ON ROUTE 30

Resolution Adopted Today at Meeting of Protestants Held Here.

WANT CHANGE DELAYED

Seek To Hold Off Installing New Markers Pending Hearing of Appeal.

The fight to prevent the transfer of federal route 30 from Lima, Kenton, Marion and Galion to Upper Sandusky, Bucyrus and Crestline will be carried to Gov. George White as a result of action taken today at a meeting of representatives of cities along the southern route.

At a meeting in Hotel Harding the representatives adopted a resolution requesting the governor to act to delay the erection of route 30 markers on the northern route until the next meeting of the National Association of State Highway Officials. This meeting will be in January.

The representatives of cities which face the prospect of losing route 30 also acted to send a delegation before Governor White in an effort to prevent the transfer.

Marion became the center of the fight to prevent the transfer today when representatives from Lima, Kenton, Marion, and Galion met for a luncheon at Hotel Harding.

The meeting here is the result of action taken recently by the National Association of State Highway officials at their meeting in Chicago. The association designated state route 5, through Delphos, Upper Sandusky and Bucyrus to Mansfield as route 30 and at the same time designated the route from Delphos through Lima, Kenton, Marion and Galion to Mansfield as "route 30 south."

Gugler Calls Meeting

Led by Carl Gugler of Galion, president of the Harding Highway association, representatives of cities along the southern route have protested the transfer. That they may appeal to federal authorities in Washington, D. C. to halt the action of the National Officials association has been indicated. Gugler called the meeting today.

According to Gugler representatives of cities along the southern route were led to believe that if the route was changed the two roads would be designated as "route 30 north" and "route 30 south." This, however, was not done as the northern route was designated as route 30 and the southern highway as "route 30 south."

O. W. Merrill, state highway director, declares that the matter is entirely out of his hands since the action was taken by the National association.

Those at the meeting were Mrs. Della V. Gallagher, secretary of the Marion Auto club, H. E. Wilson, superintendent of the Erie railroad, of Marion, O. E. Bonnell, member of the good roads committee of the chamber of commerce, Carl Price of Kenton, R. H. Blue of the Lima Auto club, C. B. King of Marion, Millard Hunt of Marion, Miss Mary P. Kelly, secretary of the Marion chamber of commerce.

Karl W. Schell of Marion, R. T. Lewis of Marion, Carl J. Gugler of Galion, president of the Harding Highway association, B. D. Jones of Columbus, secretary of the Ohio Automobile association, W. H. Holverstott, of Marion, C. A. Klunk president of the Marion Auto club, Dr. J. W. McMurray of Marion, C. R. Leavens of Marion, J. D. Parks of the Kenton Auto club, C. E. Nash, president of the Kenton chamber of commerce, Fred C. Miller, president of the Galion Auto club, Dr. H. H. Hartman, Galion mayor, Abe Martin of Kenton, W. D. Brown, executive vice president of the Marion chamber of commerce.

Rogers Is First "Candidate" To Quit 1932 Race

(Will Rogers Special)

SANTA MONICA, Calif., June 29 —Will you do me one favor? If you see or hear anybody proposing my name either humorously or seriously for any political office will you maim said party and send me the bill?

"Life" magazine and I had a lot of fun last time by running for office, but am certainly not going to try and impose the same comedy twice. My friend on Collier's (George Creel it is, by the way, that writes that clever "Keyhole column"), says that I am taking this running serious. George, that's the worst slam you ever took against my sense of humor. I certainly know that a comedian can only last till he either takes himself seriously or his audience takes him seriously and I don't want either one of those to happen to me till I am dead (if then), so let's stop all this d— foolishness right now.

GERMANY SEES HOPE DAWNING

Nation Anxiously Awaits News of Negotiations Over Hoover Plan.

THREE PATHS LIE AHEAD

See Either Communism or Fascism If Hoover Proposal Fails.

This is the first of a series of six articles by Frederick Kuh, United Press central European manager, who has made a survey of economic and social conditions in Germany to report for American readers the situation which was one of the chief factors in leading President Hoover to call for a world moratorium on war reparations and intergovernmental debts. Another article will follow daily for the remainder of the week.

BERLIN, June 29—Cabinet ministers and taxicab drivers, worried directors of the Reichsbank and humble merchants, industrial leaders and petty shopkeepers, dealers in steel and dealers in matches, high and low await word from Paris and from Washington that the last obstalce to Herbert Hoover's debt moratorium proposal has been removed.

On that word rests the hope of national and individual economic stability, or the fear of utter economic demoralization.

Today Germany is teetering between thrilled anticipation of rescue from what, for months, has seemed certain social and economic collapse, and the gravest of fear that French opposition may yet blast the hopes aroused by America's message.

And, casting their shadows over this conflict of national and personal psychology, are the antagonistic political agencies of Hitlerism and Communism, waiting on the one hand to take advantage of a new stimulated German morale, or on the other, to seize the opportunity offered by a complete and final crash.

Opposing Factions

All Germany appreciates—as the rest of the world might do well to consider—that if Hoover's efforts to establish a debt moratorium should fail, Germany's fate will rest on the struggle that is bound to follow between these two contending armies, each seeking to seize

U. S. Death Toll Nears 200 Mark in Heat Wave

SEE NO RELIEF BEFORE FRIDAY

Forecasters Say Temperatures To Remain High Until Late in Week.

MERCURY 93 IN MARION

Crops Burn Up and Stock Dies as Midwest Swelters.

The current heat wave swung into its seventh day this morning with a death toll of approximately 200 in the country and heavy damage in its wake. All but the eastern and western borders of the country were enveloped in the wave, with no countrywide relief in sight before Thursday or Friday.

Marion county reported no serious effects of the heat during the week-end as temperatures started upward this morning after a second respite from burning temperatures in the form of .68 inches of rainfall last night and early this morning.

13 Dead in Ohio

Extremely high temperatures were blamed for several of the 13 deaths in Ohio during the week-end in prostrations, drownings and traffic accidents, an Associated Press checkup today disclosed.

In Marion, the mercury rose to 93 for the Sunday high mark, dropping the mercury 24 degrees to a low of 69 last night when showers came. Showers Friday noon brought the first breathing spell in the heat wave here, dropping temperatures 23 degrees here.

Cloudy weather today partially shielded the city from hot rays of the sun, and clouds were forecast for tonight. Tuesday will be fair and continued warm, according to official forecasters.

In addition to Ohio's 13 deaths yesterday, eight children and four adults suffered burns at Toledo when a motorboat in Lake Erie exploded.

List of Dead

A list of Ohio week-end fatalities follow:

Carl Wise, 15, was killed at Akron by an Erie railroad passenger train as he tried to run from the tracks. His foot was believed to have caught.

At Toledo an interurban car, hitting their automobile, killed Doris Mayer, 27, and Vernon Plantz, 36. Automobile accidents caused the death at Cincinnati of Ernest Disher, 22, of Moscow, O., and Herbert Langfritz, 37, of Kenwood.

Herbert Deno, 19, and Leonard Deno, 17, brothers, of Hamilton, drowned in Four-mile creek near Darrtown. Alberta Criney, 7, drowned in the Ohio river near Cleves.

Four deaths attributed directly to the heat occurred at Cincinnati. The victims were Antoinette Linn, 55, and Virgil Johnson, Negro, both of Cincinnati; John Menzie of Greensburg, Ind., and an unidentified man.

William Ranking, 69, a farmer, was killed Sunday night when his truck stalled on interurban tracks four miles from Ravenna and was struck by a car. He died two hours after the accident.

Actress Takes Bath in Public Park; Arrested

By United Press

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 29—Fifi d' Orsay, the movie actress who speaks with a French accent although she never has been outside of America, insisted today that her bath in a public fountain in the center of Indianapolis was just a publicity stunt.

FIFI DORSAY

"And now then tell me," she said in her best French manner, "I may get 30 days in jail and a large fine."

The temperature was in the 90's when Miss d' Orsay walked into Monument Circle park in a brief but becoming bathing suit and stepped into the fountain. A few passersby cheered and everybody stopped to look.

The actress was ready to leave the pool, confident that the newspapers all would carry stories about her stunt, when several policemen arrived. They wrapped Miss d'Orsay in a coat, helped her into a patrol wagon and took her to head quarters.

She was charged with disorderly conduct and ordered to appear in court today. She was informed also that she had trespassed on public property, the fountain being a war memorial. Authorities allowed her to leave the police station almost immediately so she could be on time for a performance at a theater.

"I think," Miss d'Orsay said today, "that I shall get a new press agent. I've found out that he arranged for the police to arrest me to give the stunt more authenticity."

MONTICELLO PADLOCK ORDER IS WITHDRAWN

Club Never Actually Closed by Federal Court, Marshal Says.

The Monticello club was released from federal "padlock" June 25 by an order from the United States marshal's office in Toledo, communication with the federal office disclosed today. Although the previous order of the marshal had been that a bond of $500 would be necessary to free the club from padlock, no bond was posted for its release, the marshal said.

A written statement addressed "to whom it may concern" was issued by George R. Weeks, deputy marshal, on June 25 saying in part that "the said premises formerly known as the Monticello club may be used from this date forward for any lawful purpose."

As a matter of fact, the club never was actually padlocked, but was only under a "paper padlock," the marshal said today.

Interest in the status of the club in federal court here has been heightened by reports that James Inzes, proprietor, is negotiating for a lease of the club of two Marion men, who are said to be planning to operate the club as a public inn.

SAGE STILL UNCONSCIOUS

Chances of Recovery, However, Are Held Brighter by Physician.

SKULL IS FRACTURED

Comes Out of Coma for Few Seconds Sunday; Side Not Paralyzed.

Hopes for the recovery of Walter Sage, 23, assistant county surveyor who was struck by a motor truck while at work Saturday, were held today by his physician who this morning noted an improvement in his condition.

Although Sage has not regained consciousness since the accident with the exception of a brief period yesterday afternoon, he appeared to be resting easier at City hospital. Early reports that his right side had been paralyzed were dissipated yesterday afternoon when Sage moved both his right leg and right arm.

Sage came out of the coma long enough yesterday to speak a few words. He asked to be taken home and then relapsed into unconsciousness. He has a fractured skull and other injuries.

A truck owned by the Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. driven by Frank Bender of Columbus struck Sage while he was assisting in a survey of the Upper Sandusky road north of here. Bender was released after he had reported to police.

Gangsters Send Man on "Ride" Over Niagara

By The Associated Press

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., June 29—Add to gangland's list of one-way rides a trip over Niagara Falls. Rum runners are believed to has sent a suspected informer over the cataract last night.

The unidentified man, thought to have been a smuggler himself, rode to his death over the falls in a disabled boat, and at first it was taken for granted that it was an accident. Then a piece of an oar which had been sawed almost in half was found and the authorities concluded rum runner enemies had cut the oar so that it would break when bent against the swift current.

The man went over while firemen and police stood helpless. They arrived just too late to reach him before he was swept into the fierce pull of the current just above the falls.

While the crowd looked on, the man rose as the boat neared the brink, waved his arms, and disappeared.

VOTERS BANISH EXILE'S HOPES

Former King Alfonso Sees People of Spain Go Republican.

NEW GOVERNMENT WINS

Ten Killed in Disorders During Election; Permanent Rule Planned.

By The Associated Press

MADRID, June 29—Former King Alfonso, exiled to France, had his answer from the people of Spain today in the form of a national assembly overwhelmingly Republican in political outlook.

On the basis of incomplete returns, Minister of the Interior Migel Maura issued a statement indicating the Conservative Republican-Socialist block, dominated by Provisional President Niceto Alcala Zamora, had won a majority of the 470 deputies seats yesterday in the first elections since the fall of the monarchy.

While the complete vote may not be tabulated until tomorrow, all members of the cabinet, with the possible exception of the president himself, were held certain of election. Observers interpreted this as placing the ship of the people on the banishment of Alfonso and indicating the permanent government will be formed on the general lines laid down at the time of the revolution.

At least 10 persons were killed in attendant disorders throughout the nation. Although the capital mainly was quiet, a mob attempted to attack a priest and burn his church in a suburb on the ground that he had bartered for votes. He was rescued by police. A purported plot at Tablada airdrome near Seville was nipped by the arrest of Major Ramon Franco and a display of force.

Brushes between rioters and authorities—some of them sanguinary—occurred in Adaiona, San Sebastian, Herencia, Lalinea, Almendralejo, Malaga, Carballo and other points. Communists, Catholic [illegible] and hoodlums were blamed for the disorders.

WATER ADDS HAZARD TO LAST LONG FLIGHT

Post and Gatty Hope To Reach Nome, Alaska, Without Stopping.

PAIR DELAYED IN SIBERIA

5,750 Miles Remain on 10-Day Trip Around World.

By The Associated Press

KHABAROVSK, Siberia, June 29—On the last long hop of their aerial dash around the world, Wiley Post and Harold Gatty left here at 5 p. m. Shanghai time (4 a. m. Marion time) today, hoping to reach Nome, Alaska, 2,100 miles distant, without a stop.

Behind them lay about 9,250 miles of land and sea, over which they had flown in four days, 21 hours and 34 minutes. Ahead of them was approximately 5,750 miles, including the hazardous trip across the straits of Tartary, the sea of Okhotsk, the Kamchatka Peninsula and the Bering sea which stood between them and Nome.

More than six hours after Post and Gatty, took off from here, there was no sign of their returning. The weather was good.

Ahead of Schedule

Far ahead of their 10-day schedule when they encountered their first trouble at Blagoveshchensk, the stop immediately preceding the Khabarovsk landing, Post and Gatty had experienced costly delays when they left here. They experienced their first trouble in Siberia Saturday when in landing on their 850-mile flight from Irkutsk to Blagoveshchensk the Winnie Mae stopped in a mud hole. They worked throughout the night with horses and a tractor, losing 14½ hours in pulling the plane out of the muck and getting under way again.

The non-stop route to Nome today called for the most hazardous flying since their dash across the Atlantic last week. The course was straight eastward from here to the coast, thence across the straits of Tartary, Kamchatka and the Bering sea.

Post and Gatty received a great sendoff from Russians and foreigners alike.

Communications between here and Kharbarovsk threatened to be slow in reaching here as the lines suddenly were interrupted.

Weather Favorable

The weather report at the time of the take-off at 4 a. m. Marion time appeared favorable and the fliers departed suddenly. The day was calm and the visibility fair, although the distant horizon was clouded.

Despite the fact they had worked throughout last night and virtually all of today examining and testing their plane, the birdmen were confident they would reach Nome quickly and safely.

The fliers believed weather conditions were all that could be desired and anticipated a speedy and uneventful passage.

Father time gained several notches on the airmen as they let a few precious hours slip by to have an auspicious moment for their take-off.

The fliers landed here at 2:20 p. m. yesterday (1:20 a. m. Marion time) after a 350-mile hop from Blagoveshchensk. They got the longest sleep they had had since leaving New York.

When they landed here they had covered approximately 9,250 miles of their 15,000-mile globe circling [illegible] in four days, 21 hours and 34 minutes [illegible] [illegible]

HOOVER STANDS PAT ON WAR DEBT PLAN

Sends France Notice He Opposes Any Material Change in Proposal.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 29—A reiteration of the American stand against any change in President Hoover's proposal for a war debt holiday which departs from the spirit of the plan as enunciated by him came today from the state department.

Acting Secretary Castle announced after giving the President a report of this morning's negotiations by Secretary Mellon in Paris that there still were "some technical points to be settled," and that the United States would "accept no offer which does not fall completely within the spirit and purpose of the President's proposal."

feebly today against the seventh day of oven-like temperatures.

From the Rockies to the Atlantic seaboard, and from a short distance below the Canadian border to the gulf, the heat bore down with merciless impartiality.

Upwards of 200 have died during the current wave. Cattle were reported dying in the fields of Iowa, Illinois and other middle-western states, which are bearing the brunt of the soaring temperatures. In Iowa the crops were suffering with what agricultural experts termed an "irreparable damage."

Chicago Deaths Mount

At least 46 persons died yesterday in Illinois where the thermometer hovered around the century mark. In Chicago alone 30 deaths were attributed to the heat. In other middlewestern states the death list mounted.

Temporary relief came to some sections of the northern states—the Dakotas, Minnesota and northern Michigan—in drizzling rain, but no general showers served to alleviate the blistering heat. Millions throughout the nation sought relief at beaches, where many were drowned.

There was one death in Iowa, where the temperature ranged from 97½ in Creston to 102 in Sioux City—the latter establishing a June record.

There was a drowning in Nebraska, where the year's record was unequalled. Lincoln had 101 degrees.

Temperatures in Kansas and Oklahoma ran around 100, with Altus, Okla., having 108.

Mercury rode at 100 or more throughout Indiana. Thirteen died from the heat over the week-end, and eight were drowned. Unofficially Evansville had 110.

St. Paul, at midnight, had a temperature of 89 degrees, with five deaths.

In Cleveland there were four deaths due to heat and two due to drowning.

Two drowned and four were overcome by the heat in Kentucky where a temperature of 100 degrees was fairly general. Lexington, Ky., had 96 degrees, which set a new June 28 record.

A breeze kept the weather moderate yesterday in the northeast states.

Eight Children Die in Burning Home

It is not long since a devout Protestant clergyman affirmed on Bible authority that every man has one rib fewer on one side than on the other, because one was taken out to make Eve.

Asked to examine a man's skeleton and see for himself that the number of ribs is the same on both sides, he replied: "I know that it is not so and I should consider it blasphemous to investigate the matter."

KILLINGS by brigands, "reds" and government authorities, when they catch the brigands or "reds," continue in China.

China's "reds" alone are said by civic authorities of Changsha to have killed 400,000 within five years, and this is a comparatively small area.

Canton, opposed to domination by northern China, has been purchasing war materials with considerable intelligence. The purchases include 36 airplanes, 16 of them from America. Thirty-six airplanes, with only 108 Chinese in them, can do more to worry northern Chinese cities than 136,000 Cantonese maching along the ground.

NOTED GIRL ATHLETE CRITICALLY INJURED

Betty Robinson, Olympic Winner, Victim of Airplane Crash.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 29—Betty Robinson, winner of the 100-meter dash for women in the 1928 Olympic, today lay critically injured—her athletic career probably shattered by an airplane accident.

The 19-year-old Northwestern university student yesterday suffered injuries that at first were believed fatal when a plane in which she was riding fell from about 400 feet. The plane was piloted by her cousin, Wilson Palmer, who also was critically injured.

Miss Robinson suffered fractures of her left leg, left arm, right hip and possibly a skull fracture. An X-ray examination was to be made this morning to determine if she had been internally injured.

The accident occurred over an abandoned airport and was witnessed by parents of both victims of the tragedy.

Miss Robinson became a member of the 1928 women's Olympic team when she was only 16 years old. She had made sensational marks as a member of the Illinois Women's Athletic club, and in the international games, won the United States' first track victory. She set a world women's record for 100 meters at 12 seconds, and retained it until she was beaten by Stella Walsh at Dallas, Tex., a year ago.

Her condition is critical. Her physician indicated she never would be able to run again.

Episcopal Board Recommends Revision of Marriage Rules

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 29—Marriage of divorced persons in Episcopal churches with use of the book of common prayer is favored in a revised proposal by a commission of the general convention of the church.

Last April the commission offered a plan to authorize Episcopal clergymen to remarry divorced persons. That plan barred the use of church and the regular prayer book. The revised proposal, published today, would give clergymen the right to officiate. A minority report suggests marriage by a clergyman in his discretion if there already has been a civil marriage.

Under the majority plan, one year must elapse after divorce before permission to remarry can be filed.

The report will be submitted to the general convention of the church in Denver in September.

At present the church permits the remarriage only of the innocent party to a divorce granted for infidelity.

Negro's Ability To Draw Wins Freedom in Court

By International News Service

CHESTER, Pa.—"Art for art's sake" may be only an esthetic theory, but art for freedom's sake is another matter—especially for John W. Tate, 21-year old negro.

Tate and three other negro youths were arrested following complaints from farmers that produce was being stolen from the rear of delivery trucks. Arraigned before Magistrate John Hand, Tate was asked what he did for a living.

"I draws," he said.

"Is that so?" the magistrate responded, somewhat dubiously. "Well let's see you draw a picture of the corporal there."

Tate, delighted, sketched a few quick strokes with pencil upon a sheet of paper and showed the resultant drawing to Hand.

Apparently the somewhat puzzled face of the officer was correctly represented. The magistrate commended the artist and sent him off with a reprimand. The others were held for further hearing.

ROGERS FIRST TO QUIT 1932 RACE

Not Only Doesn't "Choose To Run," but "Won't Run."

justice of the peace candidate to withdraw. I not only "don't choose to run," but I don't even want to leave a loophole in case I am drafted, so I won't use "choose." I will say "won't run" no matter how bad the country will need a comedian. By that time I couldn't run anyhow, because I can't make up my mind which side to run on, "wet" or "dry." I don't know which side the most votes is on and I can't straddle it, for that's where all the rest of the candidates are now.

I hope in doing this that I have started something that will have far-reaching effect. Who will be the next to do the public a favor and withdraw? What is there to worry anybody over the next nominations anyhow? It's one year away, but the candidates will be Hoover and Curtis versus Franklyn D. Roosevelt and some western or southern Democratic governor as vice president.

A Boost for Young

Campaign literature of the Democrats should read "that in case of success, Owen D. Young would be secretary of the treasury." Big business has kept the Republicans in for 10 years, just to get Mellon. Well, he ain't got anything on Owen Young when it comes to talking sense with big money.

Oh, yes, Collier's also said "that I could get a very liberal campaign fund." Well, none has shown up to now, so that's really the reason of this early withdrawal. Politics has got so expensive that it takes lots of money to even get beat with nowadays. I have looked politics and the movies both over and while they have much in common, I believe politics is the most common, so I will stay with the movies. Will Hays didn't make any mistakes. It's hard to give up the old White House but it would be much harder to take politics seriously. So long, boys, the first ex-candidate.

DELAY SENTENCING

Capone Not To Hear Term Until July 30.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 29—Sentencing of "Scarface Al" Capone on his plea of guilty to prohibition conspiracy and violation of the federal income tax laws was reset for July 30 today upon motion of the gang chief's counsel. Capone was to have been sentenced tomorrow.

The government made no objection to deferment of the time for pronouncing sentence, and U. S. District Judge James H. Wilkerson granted the petition.

Capone's attorney stipulated that the gangster would begin serving his sentence immediately after the hearing July 30.

A maximum of 32 years in prison may be imposed upon the defendant but current opinion in court circles here indicated a term of not more than three years. The sentence, however, is at the discretion of Judge Wilkerson.

Writes 112-Word Letter on Single Postage Stamp

The message included the girl's address. The stamp with its microscope lettering was delivered promptly.

At school Donald writes his lessons in tiny but legible words which rival the "Lord's Prayer," minutely engraved on coins.

FILM INDUSTRY HIT AT CHURCH MEETING

Payment of Fees to Clergyman Attacked; Hays' Group Mentioned.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 29—Payment of fees to clergymen by the motion picture industry was criticized today in a report by the department of research and education of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America.

Specifically mentioning the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors, of which Will H. Hays is president, the report said:

"The payment of an honorarium to an administrative official of a religious organization by a trade association at a time when policies are being formulated in which the association has an obvious interest invites a damaging interpretation when the facts are disclosed."

The report said that the treasurer of the producers had made sworn statements that he paid expenses and fees to many members of religious and social organizations.

The report charges many of the 759 persons connected with religious or social organizations had fiancial relationships with the Hays group in 1928, '29 and '30.

Hays, in a letter to Bishop Francis J. McConnell, president of the federal council, defended his organization.

He wrote: "I know of no greater force than education in raising the standards of public appreciation." The motion picture industry would always welcome criticism, he added.

Hays said that in regard to the picture "King of Kings," he refused to accede to the demand of the Rev. George Reid Andrews, chairman of the church and drama association.

Mays said Mr. Andrews as an advisor demanded that 10 per cent gross of the picture be paid to the association's treasury, only as long as Andrews remained chairman.

Mr. Andrews, in Bridgeport, Conn., said Hays was not telling the whole story, adding: "Hays double-crossed us, and completely commercialized the project.

Raskob Voices Praise for Hoover Debt Plan

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 29—John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, has only praise for president Hoover's debt suspension plan. He said it would stabilize world conditions, if accepted by the powers.

Mr. Raskob, accompanied by his daughter Elizabeth, arrived from a European tour last night on the Bremen.

The debt moratorium, he said, would in no way affect the coming political campaign, because "such a constructive step should not be weighed politically, as it is of too far reaching importance."

Speakers at miners' gatherings throughout the Pittsburgh district exhorted strikers to join the demonstration. Unemployed steel workers of the area likewise were urged to take part.

HOPES OF GERMANY NOW RUNNING HIGH

Nation Anxiously Awaits News of Negotiations Over Hoover Plan.

control of the reich, to establish an iron rule, and hereafter, dramatically, to repudiate forever—in their minds—the nation's obligations arising from the World war and the post-war financing.

Three roads lie before the Germanic peoples today—the Hoover road to normal rehabilitation as mapped out by centuries of capitalistic experiences; the Fascist road as defined by the Hitlerites, which means debt repudiation, and a revival of the nationalistic, swashbuckling imperial spirit; and the route to thorough Communism, leading down the red Russian road to complete collapse of the existing Germanic social order.

You have here the picture of a nation that has tasted oppression and defeat. It has also tasted the thrill of "good times," of luxuries, of an improved social order, of expansion. It has been, on the one hand, the promise of standards like those of America. And to the east, it has heard the promises of social equality and justice through a new economic system now in the making.

Not Satisfied With Poverty

As a result, the German peasant will no longer eat black bread and let his wife go barefoot. Sooner or later, regardless of the bickerings and quarrelings of statesmen, and regardless of the promises made by his political leaders, he will choose the path for himself—toward Fascism or toward Communism—unless intervention in his dilemma comes through acceptance of the American principle and proposal laid down by President Hoover.

The thought, alone that the United States, richest and most glamorous nation in the world in the eyes of the average German, has interposed a hand to stay the demoralizing influences weighing him down, has had a tremendous psychological effect throughout the land. It has stirred, as nothing else might stir, the minds of millions of sullen and hopeless pessimists.

Accordingly, although acceptance of the plan will mean reduction of a heavy tax rate by only 7 per cent, the very gesture has been taken as a presage of rescue from the slough of economic despond in which the whole nation has been wallowing.

Out of a population of 60,000,000, more than 4,000,000 are now without work in Germany. When you subtract from this population the aged, the young, the incapacitated, you may recognize what an appalling dearth of work exists throughout the German republic.

Yet there are optimists, even in Germany. There are those who point out the recent revival of output in many branches of industry, such are mining, textile, machine, and steel. They mention a favorable balance in Germany's foreign trade in the face of worldwide depression and other factors that lend hope to the situation.

To these—the optimists of Germany—the Hoover proposal lends added strength. Given the benefit of a year's stay from the obligations suspended, like a guillotine, over the necks of the German people, and they believe that thorough, sound economic recovery will be on the way.

All industry is operating at 41 per cent of its capacity.

Lake Erie Liquor Traffic About Gone, Officer Says

By International News Service

[illegible] O., June 26—[illegible]ng on Lake Erie [illegible]a and the United [illegible]ally at a stand-

[illegible] who once flooded [illegible]s with illicit liquor [illegible]ave found the ever-[illegible]ncount of overhead [illegible]increasing efficiency [illegible]rds and the strict [illegible]xport law a triple [illegible]owerful to combat

[illegible]n J Daly, command-[illegible]f the coast guard unit [illegible]s the author of those

"Speedy motor boats probably slip over from Canada once in a while with a small cargo of beer and ale" the captain stated. "As far as I know, however, there is little or no smuggling of liquor on the lake."

High-powered speed boats are not plying the lake waters in large numbers with illicit cargos as another federal agent is said to have found true in the New England ocean-front district. There, it was said, small speedy crafts are selling to liquor syndicates at high premiums to be placed into use for slipping through coast guard picket lines to supply American bootleggers.

Canadian Law Strict

The primary reason, in Captain Daly's opinion, why smuggling has been reduced on the lake is the rigid Canadian export law. This statute provides that no craft can clear from a Canadian port for the port of a foreign country with a cargo which is illegal in the port of entry.

To enforce the statute, machinery has been set up in Canada to obtain the destination and cargo of every outboard ship and to check up with agents at the port of entry to insure the craft's preliminary report is true.

Recent interpretations of the law are that beer and ale cargos do not come under the provisions of the export law, making it possible for smuggling of those two brands of illicit liquor into this country.

Another reason for the decreasing liquor smuggling into this country at lake ports is the increasing strength of the coast guard, on the lake, according to Captain Daly. Primarily organized as a life saving unit, the coast guard has intervened in the liquor traffic more and more in recent years, he said.

At the present time, the organization patrols the lake boundary line thoroughly at all times, precluding considerable possibility of rum running on a large scale. A recent powerful addition to the coast facilities is the coast guard radio station by which picket boats can remain ever alert for instant action to combat "rummies."

Radio To Help

The radio was installed primarily to increase the unit's efficiency as a life-saving organization. It soon will be used in the coast guard's other operations.

A third deterrant which has lessened lake smuggling is the increasing overhead costs, the Captin believes. Antiquated fishing tugs cannot be used to haul large shipments of liquor to the United States now as they were several years ago, he said. They are not fast enough and become easy prey for the alert coast guard.

The more modern conveyance, the small speed boat, can transport only small quantities and trips cannot be made profitable because of the time and expense required to smuggle a load of liquor; that aside from the danger.

The Stars Say—

For Sunday, June 25

EVERY important state of affairs may develop this day, according to the stellar mutations, both in personal and business relations. These may call for a radical change in the affairs, with reactions on environment, employment, business and personal affiliations. There will be high stimulus to initiative and adventure, yet a measure of restraint and calm judgment is called for in plunging into the untried. There is some danger of fraud or deception, especially in writings.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of an important and revolutionary change in their lives, involving employment, business, environment and personal relations and affiliations. There may be a decided tinge of romance as well. But the initiative and aggressive tendencies are under fine impetus to large achievements, if precaution be taken against fraud or duplicity, especially in writings. A child born on this day should be bold, enterprising, adventurous and independent and may attain great heights of accomplishment. It may have a romantic career.

Income Tax Collections Come Easily, as Rule, Record Shows

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 26—The opposition of the average American to the amount of income tax levied by the government is confined almost entirely to a few growls.

The internal revenue bureau collects $24 out of $25 of income taxes without a contest—other than grumbling.

The taxpayer usually tries to obtain a reduction in the remaining dollar by petitions to the board of tax appeals for a redetermination of the amount due.

The records of applications with the board include such oftheard names as Senator Couzens of Michigan, "Babe" Ruth, Gloria Swanson, Rogers Hornsby, Aimee Semple McPherson, Ralph Capone and Conrad Nagel.

More than 50,000 others have carried their complaints to the board during the seven years it has been in existence. The amount of money involved has totaled more than $1,000,000,000.

The board arbitrates the differences of opinion between the taxpayers and the internal revenue bureau. Frequently it allows reductions. More often it does not.

Recently the number of petitions received has averaged slightly less than 300 a month. It usually requires three or four months to dispose of a case. There are 20,000 applications pending.

During the last fiscal year 4,369 petitions were received. The total tax in controversy was $100,058,780. Income tax collections by the internal revenue bureau aggregated $2,410,240,230.

Weckmueller Preaches Farewell Sermon Here

Large Congregation Hears Rev. H. F. Weckmueller Preach Last Time as Pastor of First Reformed Church; Leaves Wednesday for Indianapolis.

With a charge to his congregation to "Go on, trust God, love the Lord Jesus Christ and go on and someday we will all be members of the church triumphant," Rev. H. F. Weckmueller, pastor of First Reformed church for the last eight years, preached his farewell sermon here yesterday morning.

The church was filled for the services and special anthems were sung. Rev. Mr. Weckmueller and Mrs. Weckmueller leave Wednesday for Indianapolis, Ind., where he will take up his duties as pastor of Immanuel Reformed church.

His last sermon to the Marion congregation he has seen grow from a small flock to an influential group was on the subject, "There is always glory in going on."

In part, he said:

"Life has its heights and its depths, its joys and its sorrows. It is ofttimes strange to us how health and sickness, joy and sorrow, life and death follow each other. They are the threads of which the web of life is woven.

Carry On

"Some times in the midst of the succession of all these events, a feeling of despair and despondency creeps over. We feel like a ship on the water of the sea, tossed hither and thither by the rolls of the waves, once in the calm, and at another moment in the stormy turbulent waters. Just a chip. What's the use. The great burden of life weighs down upon us. We are ready to give up.

"It is just such a moment I would that you, even as I, might hear these great words of our text come ringing clear through our chaotic minds: 'Let us not be weary in well-doing: for in due season we shall reap—if we faint not.' If we faint not, 'There is always the glory of going on.' Life is never ended with the experience of the present moment. There is always a newer, a richer experience waiting around the corner.

"Young people, never before was there such a glory in going on as there is today. The challenges of today are tremendous. Use your youth, your enthusiasm, your high ideals—temper them with knowledge, experience, kindness and love and you will make a lasting contribution to the world. Equally so, the man or woman, the father and mother is sometimes filled with the monotony of life—always a fight to keep the wolf from the door—children to be fed, clothed, educated, troubles, problems. Epecially is that true in these years of depression. No work—savings used up or lost, and indeed I don't wonder people begin to despair.

"But even with such—there is glory in going on. These children are yours—live for them—work for them—their success will be your success—their happiness will be your happiness. These days of depression will not last forever. Prosperity will come back and when it does, you will laugh at your own fears

Old Faith Needed

"So also with you grandparents—life hasn't much in store for them—they feel as though they were a burden—a care on others. I've seen tears in the eyes of some as they left they wern't wanted. Even to you I say—There is glory in going on. Many a young life has been saved from ruin by an old faith.

"No calling of life brings a person into such varied, such rich, such sacred experience of life as does the ministry. It meets people with problms, with sorrows, with sickness, with death. It meets people with joys, happiness. It meets the heights and it meets the depths. No pastor is greater than the church. Pastors may come and go, but the church goes on."

In closing Rev. Weckmueller said: "I am confident that First Reformed church of Marion will go on and glory in greater achievement. Never has there been a greater field—never has she enjoyed a better reputation."

CITY HOSPITAL NEARS "SELECT GROUP" RATING

Progress of Institution of Interest to all Marionites, Doctors Point Out

To better acquaint its readers with the efforts of the medical profession in Marion to gain recognition of the American College of Surgeons for City hospital by the formation of a staff and other progressive steps, The Star herewith presents the second of a series of articles dealing with improved medical and hospital practices. Statements in this article are based on information furnished by Marion physicians interested in the formation of the hospital staff.

Every Marionite has a vital concern in the formation of a staff at City hospital, the winning of recognition of the American College of Surgeons for the institutions, and the subsequent improvement in hospital and medical practices in Marion.

Anyone at a moment's notice, may be in critical need of hospitalization. But the welfare of the staff should be even a more intimate concern to citizens than in the hospital alone, for, to conform to requirements which staff members are obliged to live up to, Marion medical men are stepping into a higher plane of professional ethics and scientific progress.

If the hospital is equipped sufficiently to win recognition as a standardized institution, and the doctors of Marion conform to the rules and regulations of the staff, the patient is bound to benefit. And no one knows when he or she may become a patient.

Must Meet Requirements

Several pertinent facts about the staff are brought out by the backers of the movement to bring the hospital recognition of the American College of Surgeons.

The organization of the staff consists of those physicians and surgeons who desire to conform to the requirements of the American College of Surgeons. The staff has nothing to do with the administration of the hospital, which is vested by law in the director of public safety.

The Marion City hospital does not become a "closed hospital" because of the staff organization. As a matter of fact, the institution is open to all physicians and surgeons so long as they meet the requirements of the administration head.

Physicians and surgeons voluntarily become members of the staff—because they believe the staff means greater efficiency to the patient. The formation of the staff cannot under any circumstances increase taxes.

As the patient obtains the greatest benefit from improved hospitalization and progressive practices in medicine, the advantages to the patient of the formation of the staff here are pointed out by its leaders.

Movement Nation Wide

The progress made in the City hospital in conforming to minimum requirements of the American College of Surgeons is a part of a country-wide movement of similar institutions toward standardization.

Little more than a decade ago only 12 per cent of the hospitals surveyed by the college met the minimum standards which required an organized staff of medical graduates, staff conferences, clinical records, clinical laboratories, an X-ray department and other facilities for the proper diagnosis and treatment of the patient. Now approximately 70 per cent of the hospitals meet these requirements and more, indicating a vast improvement has taken place in hospitalization generally.

Patients now have the satisfaction of knowing that in approved hospitals there are no irregular practitioners with a brief term of training in an unqualified medical school, as was often the cast previous to the advent of standardization.

Patients now have protection against snap diagnoses, for laboratory tests must be made as a routine on all patients entering the hospital. There is not the surgical risk that existed previous to standardization, when anesthetics were administered without physical examination of the patient, and when labatory tests were not made and no clinical records were kept.

Patients Safeguarded

Nor can an incompetent physician cover his mistakes, for the clinical records and staff conferences now show where to place any blame, thus safeguarding the patient. Then there is marked improvement in the various adjunct services including nursing and others.

Standardization has brought this improvement about not only through specific recommendations but also by focusing the attention of all hospital workers upon the patient's needs. The increase in scientific care and better service to patients during the past decade is not only apparent to students of hospital conditions but is borne out by statistics relative to death and sickness. Investigation in a number of leading hospitals reveals the fact that the average days' stay of patients has been shortened 25 to 50 per cent, and that death and sickness have declined also.

Authorities state that during this period of hospital betterment that the mortality rate following major operations has decreased approximately 75 per cent in well regulated standardized hospitals, making illness much safer and more comfortable for the patient.

WITH SELLS-FLOTO

ONE OF THE MENAGERIE

Size and magnitude are two of the outstanding features of the big double menagerie with the Sells Floto circus, which will make its appearance in Marion Tuesday, July 7. There is history attached to practically every animal, as "Bon Tam" is the world's largest hippopotamus; "Big Joe" is the tallest dromedary with any circus and "Caesar" and "Empress" are said to be the biggest tigers in captivity.

The Sells Floto zoological exhibition is one of the most complete and diversified entour. It contains several hundred rare and costly specimens, including lions, leopards, pumas, bears, kangaroos, hyenas, ostriches, llamas, deer, elk, gnus, zebras, tapirs, tigers, hippopotami, camels, and elephants. It occupies a tent 100 feet by 300 feet, and all of this space is necessary for the many cages, dens and pits. Two performances will be given here, an afternoon show at 2 and the night performance at 8.—Adv.

OLD PROGRAM RECALLS EARLY CHAUTAUQUA

Many Famous Persons Brought Here by Association in 21 Years

Twenty-one years ago, Marion witnessed its first Chautauqua program, arranged for by an association headed by the late President Warren G. Harding and including the late Brigadier-General C. E. Sawyer, first vice president, W. T. Jones, second vice president, E. F. Tittlebaugh, third vice president, the late John E. Waddell, treasurer and J. B. Virden, secretary. The executive committee was made up of R. T. Lewis, Charles Turner, James E. Phillips, W. E. Frye and W. N. Harder.

In 1931 an imposing array of talent has been contracted for the patrons of Chautauqua which opens July 19 for five days. On the program are Rev. Paul Rader, one of the most popular evangelists in the country, considered by many as second to Billy Sunday in his wide-reaching field and Mrs. "Private" Peat, student of international affairs and a writer of notes together with other outstanding numbers. She was lately of the staff of the London, England, Daily Chronicle, and assistant to Herbert N. Cason, chief of the efficiency section attached to the British Munitions board.

Programs at Fairgrounds

For three years after the beginning of Chautauqua in Marion in July of 1910, the programs were given at the fairgrounds. In 1913 the present Chautauqua pavilion was erected at Garfield park, and since that time all programs have been given there.

The first program was a seven day affair, with three days set aside as "Farmer's Day," "Marion Day' and "Grand Army and Woman's Club Day". On the program were such notables as Maude Ballington Booth, the "little mother of the prisons," John Temple Graves, editor of the New York Journal who spoke on "The Reign of the Demagogue," Dr. Ora Samuel Gray of Amherst, Mass., the Chicago Glee club, Opie Read with a program of humorous readings and a lecture by Mrs. LaSalle Corbett Pickett, the "child wife of the confederacy."

Something went awry in the second year of the Chautauqua and one of the entertainers was unable to be present. The late Mr. Harding took his place on the program and delivered a lecture on Alexander Hamilton.

The announcement at the front of the program is one which has been the guiding principle throughout 21 years. It reads: "The Marion County Chautauqua association, an organization without purpose of financial gain, but aiming at the profit in the moral and intellecutal uplift that comes from a high-grade Chautauqua meeting, will hold its first asembly of seven days."

Each year the officers and executive committee have endeavored to maintain to the fullest, the meaning of the first paragraph in the first Marion Chautauqua program.

Famous Speakers

Such famous persons as William Jennings Bryan, Adam Bede, Gov. R. B. Glenn of North Carolina, and Strickland Gillilan. That year, Chautauqua extended over nine days. In 1912 one of the highlights of the program was Mme. Lydia Finkelstein Mountford, interpreter of life in Palestine.

The big attraction of the 1913 program, the year the entertainment moved to Garfield park, was the Ben Greet Players who came to play "The Comedy of Errors" and "She Stoops to Conquer." William J. Burns, world-famous detective, appeared for an afternoon address.

The late Senator Robert M. La Follette was counted as one of the big attractions of the 1914 assembly. Dan Sumner of the Cathedral S. S. Peter and Paul of Chicago, was another of the well known speakers on the program. Simeon D. Fess came here in 1915 to speak. Addison Bain was superintendent of the camp grounds.

In those days persons gathered from all over Marion county and erected tents on the Chautauqua grounds and made a little city during the six or seven days the program was in continuance.

RIVER SURVEY RECOMMENDED

A. T. Connar, State Official, Suggests Means of Gathering Data.

Although a survey of all principal streams in Ohio, including the Scioto and Sandusky rivers, which offer the most practical route for slack-water improvement between Lake Erie and the Ohio river has been recommended by A. T. Connar, director of the Ohio public works department, no action to accomplish such a survey of the Scioto river has been taken to the knowledge if Marionites interested in the river as a canal route.

The suggestion was made by Connar in review of a similar survey recently of the Muskingum river drainage area by the Dayton Morgan Engineering Co.

Connar said the surveys might be extended over a period of years and might result in "accumulation of vast data that sooner or later would be valuable whenever flood protection, transportation, water supply, sanitation and conservation of water resources of the state, are up for solution," according to the United Press.

Connar also suggested that the legislature give the state, cities, and counties authority to acquire strips of land at least 200 feet wide on each side of all principal streams.

"Surplus water could flow over these strips and low levees could be built along their outer margins to restrain flood waters," he said. "Even though the improvements were not made for years the land could be obtained cheaper now and could be used as parts of the state's public park system in the meanwhile."

The Scioto river is considered a probable route for the proposed Great Lakes-Ohio river canal which has been discussed for years.

Parasite Invasion Menaces Ohio Forests and Orchards

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 29—State forests and orchards are threatened with serious injury this summer by an invasion of parasites, according to reports from various sections of Ohio.

Four parasites have attacked the trees and the fruit bearing trees and vines—the cicado or 17-year locust, the army worm, the European elm scale and the cottony maple scale.

Many sections of the state were visited by 17-year locusts this spring and summer, especially the eastern district from the northern boundary to the northern border of Lawrence county and west to the eastern border of Franklin county. There are three breeds of the cicado found in Ohio. The locusts attack forests and fruit trees, where the females deposit their eggs. Oil applications in the early spring are successful against the pests, but such applications later, when the trees are in foliage, might cause great damage.

Professor T. H. Parks, entomologist of Ohio State university, has visited many of the woods infested by the locuusts. He says the farmer and the fruit grower will be hardest hit by the pests.

The army worm made its first appearance in Ohio this season on a farm near Pickerington. The worms destroyed a 10-acre field of rye in 24 hours. Farmers fear the worms may attack the corn crops.

The European elm and the cottony maple scale likewise are pests attacking the specific variety of trees. Professor Parks warned against attempting eradication until during the dormant stage, fearing that such treatment would further harm the trees. Where small trees are attacked, he said, the insects can be killed by using a whiskbroom or scrub brush and soapy water. The insects penetrate the bark and live on the sap, and cause the trees to scale. Deprived of the sap, the limbs of the tree die and frequently the entire tree is robbed of life. Experts say the exceptionally large numbers of these pests in evidence this year is due to last summer's drouth.

WILL CONSIDER NEW MEAT CODE FOR CITY

Council Members and Health Board To Discuss Proposed Ordinance.

What provisions will be included and what power will be given the inspector in the proposed meat inspection ordinance will be decided tonight when members of the city council and the board of health meet at the city hall for a conference.

The ordinance which has been prepared by Dr. J. T. Gruber, milk and meat inspector, will be gone over to determine just what it shall contain. It is expected it will then be presented for adoption at the meeting of the board of health Wednesday afternoon and if adopted will be brought before city council at the regular meeting of that body on July 13.

The ordinance is expected to provide for stricter inspection of meat being brought into the city, it having been charged that meat is now being brought into Marion that would not be permitted in cities having more rigid inspection.

NEW PRISON ARRIVALS

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 29—The population of Ohio penitentiary shot up another thousand on a recent day—but the new occupants were not humans. A swarm of bees, some 1,000 strong, invaded the vast prison yard. While convicts, experienced in the ways of bees, collected them, other prisoners quickly constructed a hive. The swarm is now in the hive, and the prisoners are thinking of the honey harvest to come.

With both Jouett Shouse and Senator Patton Harrison praising Mr. Hoover's international debt moratorium proposal, we're beginning to wonder if maybe there isn't something wrong about it.

Here's a case of confiscation masquerading as a tax.

The World's Stiffest Problem.

War debts and reparations constitute the stiffest problem in the world's lengthy problem list. It is a problem of incomprehensible eleven-place figures, unknown factors, and tense feeling that is balking the world's best minds.

President Hoover's proposal to suspend reparations and war debt payments for one year has turned the attention of the American people to the business of settling up for the World war to a greater degree than ever before. For purposes of clearer understanding an attempt is made herewith to present the more important considerations involved in an order that may make them easier to understand.

The considerations fall easily into classifications of figures and feeling.

In terms of the figures commonly accepted as accurate approximations the proposed suspension would mean that Germany, for whose particular benefit it works, would be relieved of making a payment of $425,000,000. This includes an item of $20,723,000 on that nation's external loan of 1924; the rest is directly chargeable to the World war. To lift this burden from Germany, other nations would forego debt and reparations collections in the following approximate amounts: United States, $246,000,000; France, $200,000,000; Italy, $46,000,000; Great Britain, $86,000,000.

The net losses to these countries are estimated by finding the difference between the reparations and debt payments they would receive and the amount they would pay their creditors. Thus, Great Britain, which would collect $86,000,000 from Germany in reparations, and $94,000,000 from her former Allies in debt payments—an income total of $180,000,000—would pay the United States $160,000,000 on its debt to this country, making a net loss of $20,000,000. The net loss to France, estimated the same way, is $86,000,000. It is because of these real sacrifices of money used in making up national budgets that debt and reparations suspension is more than merely a humane gesture. It is a bread-and-butter proposition

From that realization the most important point in the entire episode of action on debts and reparations the last few days follows in sequential development.

The "truce of gold" proposed by President Hoover, stripped of political bangles and sentimental tosh, was demanded by grim necessity. Germany was on the border of collapse. American investment was threatened. Had Germany been forced to ask a moratorium on its obligations, its securities would have tumbled. Italy, France, Great Britain and the [illegible] other smaller nations involved in the debt and reparations structure are in desperate fiscal straits also.

That is why President Hoover proposed a suspension of payments—not because he sought to strengthen his political position. The issue is so vast that national politics is picayunish by contrast, and those who look at is from a political viewpoint reveal themselves the unhappy possessors of pigmy minds.

The United States is Europe's common creditor. So long as credit is kept within ordinary bounds, the question of collection does not constitute much of a problem, but when it is extended as it was by this country during the war into billions the creditor has a most complicated problem on his hands. Uncle Sam has reason to appreciate this fact. While it is true that he wishes to be helpful to Europe and the world at the same time he realizes that the war debt situation must be considered as a cold business proposition. This fact, held firmly in mind, may be a guide through the fog that will be cast about the President's proposal for one reason or another.

In the United States treasury is a mass of foreign bonds which originally amounted to $11,565,000,000 under fifteen funding agreements with debtor nations. The treasury has calculated that in the period covered by the war debt agreements the United States would receive the following amounts, were every nation to carry out its commitments completely:

Austria, $24,614,885; Belgium, $727,830,500; Czechoslovakia, $312,811,433; Estonia, $33,331,140; Finland, $21,695,005; France, $6,847,674,104; Great Britain, $11,105,965,000; Greece, $20,330,000; Hungary, $4,693,420; Italy, $2,407,677,500; Latvia, $13,958,635; Lithuania, $14,531,940; Poland, $435,687,550; Roumania, $122,506,260; Yugoslavia, $95,177,635; a total of $22,188,484,877.

Germany would be obliged to pay approximately $27,000,000,000 during the same period.

So much for figures. The United States, obviously, never can hope to collect all its debts, but President Hoover can improve the chances of collecting some of them by proposing a year's vacation to give every nation a chance to get squared around and talk things over. Unreasonable hardness is out of the question.

Discussing the situation in terms of feeling, the suspension means that Germany and every other debtor nation is encouraged to hope that something will turn up. Before President Hoover's proposal was made, repudiation was the tone of war debt discussion. Now it is a tone of agreement. The upward turn of stock prices in every market of the world is an indication of what a very real factor hope can be.

It is foolish to imagine that a year's suspension will solve the debt problem; the reparations problem is omitted from this discussion avisedly, because of its separate nature. The United States does not collect reparations, nor do its people hold Germany responsible for the war. It does intend to collect at least a part of its legitimate debts, however. Easing the tension of its debtors at this time, therefore, is a sound business move. The money involved is a drop in the bucket; the revival of hope involved is a bucketful.

People everywhere have taken heart, and in the months to come their attitude will be evident in a general pick-up of business and trade. This much has the proposal done already. It is unsafe to speculate on what subsequent developments may bring. The United States, the universal creditor, can determine that largely by its mass attitude—the quality of its enlightened selfishness, as President Hoover has seen fit to call it.

In conclusion, then, it may be said that this nation's proffer of help has done more to cast light on the world's problem of war debts as they pertain to it and as they are connected in the European debt structure with reparations than any action so far in the decade of the problem's general recognition. It is, withal, only a first step, one of many that will have to be taken in the next few years if the leading nations of the world are to save themselves from the whirlwind effect of their most recent war.

So many and strong have been the protests concerning the use of alcolate, which gives the product the odor of garlic and ancient eggs, that the government has secured a new formula for denaturing alcohol which will be effective against redistillation and make the use of the treated alcohol less unpleasant to industrial workers. Henceforth, those inclined to court death by going up against the denatured stuff will have less notice of its deadliness, but they will be able to pass out with less offense to their nostrils.

Ahead of the Market.

The automobile of the future was sketched roughly at the annual summer meeting of the Society of Automotive Engineers. It will be shaped like a fish to overcome air resistance, will be driven by an engine mounted over the rear wheels, will be more economical to operate and will be roomier inside—if certain engineers have their way. There will be greater visibility and less vibration, no engine fumes to bother its occupants, and will ride easier.

That is the car of the future, of course, which will be as unlike the cars of today as they are unlike the cars of yesterday. As one automotive engineer put it: "If we started out today to design a fast automobile and were not handicapped by precedent and fashion, said automobile would not look or act or be mechanically arranged like present automobiles." The engineers are so far ahead of the market, however, that they are wasting their time working on plans. The best they can do, in their impatience, is to improve the present automobile as much as possible and wait for the time when the public will grow tired of it and want something else.

Millions of automobiles designed after one pattern preclude the possibility of making radical changes in automotive design, even though such changes might represent improvements. In good time and by degrees, automobiles will evolve further toward perfection, but never so rapidly that values will be destroyed in the process. The perfect vehicle is still years in the future—when all the imperfect automobiles of the present will have been junked and forgotten.

BRITISH UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE.

Great Britain's experience under its unsound system of doles disguised as insurance against unemployment carries warnings which other nations facing similar problems can not afford not to take to heart.

The MacDonald government now desires to borrow another $126,000,000 for the so-called unemployment fund. The additional sum will swell to $560,000,000 the total indebtedness of that fund to the British treasury. No one really supposes that the debt ever will be paid. It will have to be canceled. That loss will not be the result of the original insurance feature, but will arise from the unfortunate attempt to mix insurance and charity.

A royal commission has recommended an increase in the contributions of employed workers to the fund and a reduction in the benefits paid to the unemployed. The opposition of a large element in the Labor party to the proposed changes has been so strong that the government has not deemed it advisable to present the commission's proposals to parliament. It is willing to eradicate some minor abuses in the system, but the effect of those superficial reforms on the finances of the fund would be trivial.

Some of the British trade union leaders favor total elimination of the insurance features of the system and its frank conversion into a system of doles. Though the MacDonald government has no sympathy with that position, it has offered no alternative plan, preferring to drift down the stream of events.

A carefully-devised, actuarially-sound system of insurance against temporary unemployment is, no doubt, within the range of possibility, but administering relief to hundreds of thousands of persons regardless of the total of contributions made to the fund and of the duration of the periods of unemployment would wreck the insurance feature of any plan.

Great Britain can not let its unemployed starve. But charity is not insurance. The two entirely different kinds of benefits ought to be kept distinct.—Chicago News.

A DEFENSE OF DEMOCRACY.

In his address at Vienna, Monday, Nicholas Murray Butler did more than offer a clear summary of the advantages and short comings of republican government in America. He delivered a persuasive defense of democracy, as a type of government superior to Fascism, Communism or rigid monarchy. Speaking in the capital of one of the countries now wavering between republicanism and dictatorship, Dr. Butler's case for the republican system was exceedingly timely and realistic.

Although intended for an audience of Austrians, the address should be peculiarly interesting for those Americans who may read its text. The energetic president of Columbia university sometimes speaks with more zeal than discretion in America, but his criticisms of the American system of government as given to the Viennese are tempered with reflection and fundamental in their importance.

The first objection is against the unrestrained privilege of all legislators to introduce any number of bills, of any character, resulting in a flood of legislation, much of which is pointless, some mischievous. A second criticism is of the failure of the law to require cabinet members to appear in congress to answer questions pertaining to their respective departments.

A further comment is on the absurdly large number of minor public officers now elected by popular vote, which tends to decrease interest in the really important issues and personalities. And a final criticism is the clumsy procedure involved in the ratification of treaties through the senate, a procedure which has had an unfortunate effect on our foreign policies and their execution in many instances.

Dr. Butler's observations are in no sense final, but represent problems that will recur, again and again, for many years to come. They are suggestions worth thinking over.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Your Heart Gets Tired, Too.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Newspaper headlines tell us every day of the sudden and unexpected death of some noted person. The sudden loss is almost always explained as due to heart disease.

Many of these deaths could have been avoided. Heart disease is rarely an acute affair. The end may come suddenly, but the progress of the ailment has been over a course of many years.

The heart is a muscular organ. Its function is to pump blood through the body. When the blood has received oxygen from the lungs and nutritive elements from the food, it is pumped to all parts of the body. After the oxygen has been used and the nutritive elements removed, the blood returns to the heart and starts again on its circuit of the body.

A tremendous amount of work is demanded of the heart. When the organ is tired, its power to work is lessened. If the heart is diseased, its efficiency is lessened and less hard work should be expected of it.

Like any other muscle in the body, the heart muscles become fatigued. With rest and proper care, the muscle is rejuvenated and again works normally.

No unreasonable demands should be placed upon the heart. It surely should not be called upon for overwork when it is tired. It should never be strained if diseased.

Many a foolish person demands that the heart work at any and all times. Regardless of how many hours of sleep he has had, what type of food he may have eaten, and with no respect for the kidneys and blood vessels, he expects the heart to work properly. Certainly, only a foolish man would make such demands on his heart and other organs.

Please remember that medical men today are endeavoring to prevent diseases, not to cure them. Many diseases are incurable, but most of them are preventable.

Have you had a physical examination lately? Please see your family physician and insist upon his examining your heart, lungs and blood pressure. Then he will advise you wisely how to live.

The Universe's Clock.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

It is a fact known to everybody that Greenwich, England, time sets the standard for the entire world. Greenwich is universally taken to be the zero meridian. At the Greenwich observatory, one of the most interesting rooms is that in which the clocks are kept. This room, which to aid in the purpose has double doors, is kept at a constant temperature which is rather warm. The marvellous Shortt clock, made by the Synchronome company, is a masterpiece of scientific accuracy. It is a two-clock combination, namely a free pendulum on one wall electrically connected with a so-called "slave clock" on another wall. The free pendulum so acts that should the clock itself err even to the two-hundredth of a second, it is instantly corrected by the pendulum of which it is the "slave." This clock has been installed during the incumbency of the present astronomer royal, Sir Frank Dyson.

The business of officially determining time in the United States goes back to 1809, when William Lambert recommended to congress the establishment of a first meridian at Washington. At this time Lambert had already determined the longitude of Washington. It was not until 1845 that observations of the sun, moon, planets and brighter stars were inaugurated at the observatory. Four years later a chronograph, known as a magnetic clock, was installed at the observatory; and it is still preserved, in the museum of the Naval observatory. Twenty-four years later than this installation, the observatory was equipped with a large refracting telescope, then the largest one in the United States.

The stars are observed with transit instruments, that is small telescopes, in order to mark the exact instant the star passes the celestial meridian. The celestial meridian is the name for the line in the heavens which passes through the imaginary line through the north and the south points, and also through the zenith—directly overhead—of the place of observation, where you are situated.

Now it happens that the time it takes the stars to appear to make the round trip of the heavens is almost the true period of the earth's rotation. The period of the earth's rotation, measured in reference to a point in the sky called the vernal equinox, is our sidereal day. As the so-called fixed stars move very slightly with reference to the vernal equinox, they are very reliable as reference points for measuring the time of the earth's rotation. The sidereal day is the most accurate standard of time measured.

The sidereal time at which each star under observation will cross the celestial meridian is calculated. The exact time, according to the clock, that the stars cross the meridian is very closely determined. The difference between the time that the stars should cross the meridian and the times they are found to cross the meridian according to our clocks, is the error of the clock.

Three standard sidereal clocks, kept in a vault at the United States Naval observatory, keep the most accurate star time possible. The actual rate of each clock is determined by checking with the actual time the stars cross the meridian, and taken by applying these corrections to the face time of the sidereal clock, we know the exact sidereal time.

Time is absolutely indispensable in many ways, accuracy being the prime consideration, of course. The time signals are broadcast automatically from the United States observatory by means of special transmitting clocks. As stated by Captain Frederick Heerweg, director of the observatory, in an article, "Telling the Nation's Time" in the Scientific Monthly, the transmitting clocks contain electrical mechanism by which they may be set within one-hundredth of a second.—Copyright, 1931, International Feature Service Inc.

Doylestown Narrowly Missed Fame.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

Though Doylestown, Wayne county, which celebrated its centennial anniversary in July, 1927, lost the principal usufruct, it was there that the foundations of two great industries based upon inventions in the agricultural implement line were laid, and subsequently moved to other cities with more attractions for manufacturing industries.

For it was at Doylestown that in 1861 Jacob H. Hower, J. H. Seiberling and Samuel Miller formed a partnership to manufacture the "Excelsior Dropping Reaper and Mower" of which John F. Seiberling and the father of Frank A. Seibling, the founder of the present great Goodyear Rubber company, and now the president of the Seiberling Rubber company in Arkon.

There are many men now living who were farm born and reared, who well remember binding wheat after the "dropper" harvester that this firm made. It long preceded the binder of the present day. The best that a harvesting machine could be expected to do then being to gather the wheat as it cut it, and lay it convenient for the binders who followed the machine on "stations" to make into sheaves. The first McCormicks carried a man, in addition to the driver, whose duty it was to rake off the wheat when enough had accumulated on the platform to make a sheaf, and the next improvement on that with the McCormicks was a "self rake," while Seiberling's machine had a platform that could be dropped by a lever operated by the driver's foot, so that the stubble raked the wheat carried by it, from the dropped platform.

The firm also made the "Empire" mower, which was at first merely the reaper divested of its dropping platform and a hay sickle. The Seiberlings withdrew and moved to Arkon, and Miller became associated with a Mr. Aultman in the firm of Aultman, Miller & Company, long engaged in the manufacture of threshing machines at Massillon. Out of Doylestown therefore came some great things, and but for the accident of removals its name might have been written large on the map of Ohio.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, June 29 — Diary of a modern Pepys: Up and breakfasting with Mike and Alice Hogg and fell to wondering the whereabouts of Marie Doro and Viola Allen, the play actresses. Then away to a cheese monger and come upon Betsy Drake and Sadie Murray along the way and exchanged a little tattle of brouhaha.

In the afternoon leaving the heat of the city and driving on the Saw Mill road and sat under an old oak with my typing machine. And my wife reading her book cried it up as mightly idyllic. Yet what with so many flying insects and the dogs a-barking I got nothing done.

To dinner at the Sherry Netherland with Archie and Eleanor Andrews, and Dean and Mildren Cornwell there and later to one of Archie's Trans-Lux movies. And carrying the Cornwells home Dean gave the address as 1111 Park avenue, but with my flair for numbers delivered them to 111 Fifth avenue.

The expose of Harlem's policy racket with its so-called policy kings banking millions offered New York a shocking revelation of the hold this form of gambling has on modest wage-earners. Called policy, it is known among the players in Harlem as "numbers," and is based on figures in the daily race track receipts. The bets range from ten cents to a dollar. Every corner in the section has its runner who accepts bets. When the public wins heavily the bankers vanish for a while.

Waiters in Broadway Chinese restaurants have a proprietory interest in establishments where they are employed. Courtesy is one of their chief attractions. Cesare Ritz once said: "One may forget a poor dinner, but never a discourteous waiter."

Hollywood is in artistic throes of a film on the life of Sir Walter Raleigh and an anonymous correspondent on Ambassador stationery inquires anxiously if, at that auspicious moment when the cloak is spread for Queen Elizabeth, Sir Walter will chirp: "Step on it, kid!"

Among exciting moments last week was a call on a trained seal and its master. The pair comprise a vaudeville act and are preparing to tour the continent. The trainer was born in Arkansas, and at an early age ran away with a circus. The seal during its stage lay-off is kept in a warehouse in west Forty-Seventh street where its tank is filled with fresh water daily. I learned a seal is not difficult to train—it usually requires about six months. The mammal is highly imitative and especially enjoys balancing tricks. My Boston with a crazy bravado rushed at the seal, but stopped short, utterly puzzled by the lightning zig zagging of its head. Seals, incidentally, are ferocious when attacked.

The trainer said that on ocean voyages he frequently walked his seal around the deck just as a lark. Ever since I have been thinking a captive seal that near the ocean and freedom must face an agonizing problem in love vs. duty.

Verne Porter, the well-known old whaler, who is my companion on surious expeditions was rather mute in presence of the seal, nodding as it went through its stunts. But when it had finished, shuffled off to its tank and dived in with a splash, he cried: "Thar' she blows—and sparm at that!" And went back to sleep.

I have been trying to "catch" another free animal act which several have written takes place in Gramercy park every late evening or so. A Pomeranian and a pet squirrel are taken to the park for a romp and they frolic about like two puppies.

Then there is the fellow in Morningside Heights—the prettiest named section in town, by the way—who writes me he has a goldfish that comes to the surface at intervals and cheeps in a thin tenor. A sissy fish is all that is needed to give me the final push into the padded cell.—Copyright, 1931, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

A Washington Daybook.

BY HERBERT PLUMMER.

Washington, June 29—Crowded conditions in Statuary hall—a perennial topic in the capital—again has come to the front.

Bills to abolish the hall and erect a building suitable for housing the statues long have been pending in congress. But nothing has been done.

David Lynn, the capitol architect, has revived the subject. In his annual report, just published, he states:

"It is apparent that some steps should be taken within a very short time to provide suitable accommodations for the housing of not only the statues already presented by the states, but those which are to come. It is apparent that the area of Statuary hall is insufficient."

The heroes stand close, political foes in juxtaposition as often as champions of a similar cause. Lynn listed all of them that congress might know the hall's probable appearance when all the states entitled to send statues have complied with the invitation.

Although thirteen states are unrepresented, the hall is crowded. Six other states entitled to place the statues of two illustrious sons in this hall of fame have sent only one.

Those yet to avail themselves of the privilege extended sixty-six years ago are Colorado, Delaware, Louisiana, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oregon, South Dakota, Utah, Washington and Wyoming.

Mississippi dropped out of the list only the other day, presenting Jefferson Davis, the president of the confederacy, and James A. George, jurist and United States senator.

In the semicircular space that once was the chamber of the house of representatives there is only one figure each from Arizona, Idaho, Maine, Minnesota, North Carolina and Oklahoma.

Between the senate and house chambers of today the old hall is traversed by thousands of tourists daily.

Its black and white marble floor is under a high-domed ceiling. Fourteen round gray columns mark the semicircular walls, stretching to a straight wall, also pierced by granite piliars.

The straight wall once was the front of the old house chamber. A small balcony runs midway between floor and ceiling. Windows high, some circular and others oblong, let the light in through the thick outside walls so that strongly outlined beams cross in the space.

Bronze and alabaster, the statues stand against the walls, sometimes three deep. There is almost a southern corner with Davis figure forming a triangle with that of Alexander Stephens, vice president of the confederacy, and another of John C. Calhoun. But close by stand such figures as Daniel Webster and Henry Clay.

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD, June 29—Judge W. P. Vaughan has again overruled a motion for a new trial in the case of Worth Cyphers against Samuel D. Isaly. Cyphers originally sued Isaly for damages for personal injuries resulting from a collision between Isaly's automobile and a wagon driven by Cyphers.

Jury in the common pleas court here awarded him slightly over $10,000 in the first trial of the case but the amount was reduced to $7,000 by Judge Vaughan. Isaly's attorneys appealed the case and the appellate court remanded the case to the common pleas court for a new trial. The jury again decided in Cyphers favor awarding him $12,285, the largest personal damage verdict ever awarded by a Morrow county jury.

Isaly's attorneys have not indicated whether the case will again be brought before the appellate court for alleged error in the second trial. Ralston in their wedding vows Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Brelsford of near Bellefontaine and Mr. Ralston is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Ralston of 901 Cheney avenue.

As Miss Maye Evangeline Lawrence, church organist played the "Wedding March" from Wagner's "Lohengrin," the bride entered on the arm 'of her father, who gave her in marriage. She was in white silk net over white satin, fashioned with a floor-length skirt of three deep tiers, which fell in a short train at the back. The basque waist was covered by a jacquette. Her veil of Chantilly lace was cap shape held in place with rhinestones, seed pearls and orange blossoms. Bride's roses and gypsophila formed her shower bouquet tied with white satin. She wore a modernistic crystal necklace, a gift of the bridegroom.

In the wedding party were Mrs. Lawrence Kline of Marion, matron of honor, Miss Iona Persinger of Marion and Miss Thelma Baird of Marion, bridesmaids, Lawrence Kline, best man and Harold Lill and Floyd Williams, ushers.

Organdy fashioned the bridesmaid's dresses. Miss Perringer was in green and Miss Baird was in yellow. The dresses were fashioned with fitted waists and long full skirts and trimmed with velvet ribbons of corresponding shades. They wore picture hats, slippers and gloves of eggshell shade and carried bouquets of old-fashioned flowers. The bride's gifts to her attendants were rhinestone bracelets and the bridegroom gave his men leather-encased military sets.

White tulle bows marked the reserved pews. Preceding the ceremony, Miss Mary Heininger and Miss Elizabeth Pace sang "I Love You Truly," and "Oh, Promise Me." As the wedding party left the church Miss Lawrence played Mendelssohn's "Wedding March."

A reception was held at the couple's new home at 804 Merkel avenue for the out-of-town guests and immediate friends, after which they left on a trip east through Washington and Atlantic City. In two weeks they will be at home to their friends.

CHAPTER 25

Mother Mountain Lode

"WHO is this man, Colorado Bill, Mr. Harrigan?" asked Pierre. "What does he look like?"

"Why, he's a fairish big man wid grizzly whiskers all over his face—older than yo'd guess and hard as rock, and a cold, distrustful kind av an eye. He drifted into Red Butte a few years back—said he was from Colorado and aimed to prospect this country. Everybody calls him Colorado, and nobody ever asked him any questions, which is a handy habit fer some av us as you yourself I'm thinkin', can testify."

Pierre ignored the Irishman's hint. "I can't imagine how Bruce came to know a man like that. It's funny, if you ask me!"

"Tis right you are, me lad, and there's a lot av things about the whole business that's funny—not exceptin' yerself. Here ye come right out av nowhere, to find a man that nobody knows, who's gone off wid somebody that nobody knows where. We've pounded the trail two days, and camped one night, and divil a word have ye said to let me know about yourself."

"'Tis all right, av course," said Jimmie. "If it were not that I'm gettin' to like ye, I wouldn't be botherin'."

For a moment Pierre looked into the older man's eyes, then, with a helpless gesture, turned sadly away. Presently he said: "Where is this Mother Mountain? Can we see it from here?"

The old prospector went to stand beside his young companion, saying: "I may as well be givin' ye the lay av the land so ye'll have it clear tomorrow.

"That bunch of funny little round hills away over there to the southwest is the Biscuit Hills, where my mine is. 'Tis only a prospect now, but it will be a mine some day. My camp is one day go from where we're standing. You can see the trail startin' there. That patch av color that looks like a crazy quilt, beyond and a little to the south of the Biscuit Hills, is the Painted Mountains where our friends Colorado Bill told me he was taking Mr. Burnes, or Bruce, or whoever he is.

"Now straight north, that blue mountain risin' out of the desert with two rounded peaks like a woman's breast is Mother Mountain, where yer goin' to find Colorado Bill and yer man Bruce Carey, if ye don't meet thim comin' back. Blackwater Tank is at the foot av the mountain. As we're looking 'twould be right under the hollow between the breasts. From here to the Tanks is a day and a half if you don't go too slow. There is always water here at Drippin' Spring and in the Biscuit Hills. Sometimes there is water at the Tanks. And, except fer these three places, there is never a drop av water in all this land for many a hot mile.

"From Blackwater Tanks a man might go on the far side of Skeleton Peaks two days until he struck the road which runs from Red Butte north to Gold Center. Then it would be another day to Gold Center, or two days to Red Butte. But no man in his right mind would ever think av trying' that route widout burros to carry water. Ye can see Skeleton Peaks to the east of Mother Mountain."

"I see," said Pierre.

"Well, between Burnt Hills—which I showed you comin' across the mesa from Red Butte to here—and them Skeleton Peaks is a low-lyin' bit of country we call Skeleton Sink. There's no living thing that's ever gone into that hell-hole and come out alive. Our desert Indians call it 'the place of the dead.'

"There's not enough moisture there to wet the tongue of a horned toad."

As if in mentioning the route Pierre would follow to Mother Mountain he had approached a subject upon which he did not wish to dwell, the Irishman turned abruptly and began kindling the campfire.

But Pierre was caught in the spell of the desert. "I can't make it seem real," he said in a hushed voice. "Gee. I wish Father Tony could see this!"

"Father Tony!" exclaimed the Irishman. "'Tis a good lad ye are to be wishin' for a priest."

Pierre laughed. "Father Tony is not a priest, Mr. Harrigan. He is an actor. I call him Father Tony because he has always been like a father to me. You should hear him read 'All the world's a stage, and all the men and women merely players'!"

As Pierre spoke with his best stage voice and manner, Harrigan stood up and looked at his companion with new interest.

"By George!" Pierre exclaimed, "that's what's the matter with all this." Pierre's sweeping gesture indicated their surroundings. "I know now why it's not real to me—it's because it's only a stage set. Don't you see, Mr. Harrigan?—the set pieces and drop scenes and everything, like a stage scene. And you and I and Bruce and Colorado Bill, we are the actors." His eyes had that look as if he were seeing things his companion could not see, as he said reverently: "And mother—mother is standing there in the wings."

The desert man turned to prepare their supper, but watched his companion with doubtful glances.

"Av it was to guess now about what's none av my business, I would say that ye do be a play actor yerself."

Pierre answered mechanically, "I am. That is, I was going to be an actor. My mother was an actress. I was on the stage with her when I was little. She used to stand in the wings when I played my parts. I think she does it yet. She died when I was only a boy.

"Mother thought I would be a great actor. I thought so too. But now, I'm nothing but a clerk in a soda fountain.

"A soft drink bartender, heh?"

"I was ready to go to New York to study for the stage. That was what mother planned for me, but Bruce— Oh, well, that part of it is all over now."

"This Father Tony's not your real father, you say?" inquired Harrigan, "and you have no kin to help you out of this trouble?"

"Father Tony was just a friend of mother's. I haven't seen my own father since I was a little chap. I don't even know if he's living. I have nobody but Father Tony—and Ann."

As if in speaking the name of Ann he had aroused himself, he cried. "I've simply got to find Bruce. If I can get to him in time, everything may all come right yet."

"There me boy. 'Tis no good losin' yer grip av yerself. Ye'll find yer man tomorrow or next day. Come now and put yerself outside a good fill av beans and bacon, wid java to wash it down. 'Tis food that'll make the world look brighter."

For a while they ate in silence, as the sun dropped below the distant mountains. The food and the business of eating restored Pierre to a less emotional state of mind and presently he asked: "What do you think Colorado and Bruce are looking for, Mr. Harrigan?"

"'Tis mortal sure I am that they're lookin' fer the lost Mother Mountain lode."

"What is it they are looking for?"

"An' have ye never heard tell av the lost lode of Mother Mountain?"

"But what is this lode—a load of what?"

Again the Irishman laughed. "Will you listen to that—your ignorance, me lad, is as amazing as it is ridiculous. This lost Mother Mountain lode is a big vein of gold somewhere in Mother Mountain. Nobody knows where it is, though many, includin' myself, had had a try fer to find it. The reason it's lost is because the prospector who discovered it got himself lost in Skeleton Sink. Some geologist sharps prowlin' around on the edge of the Sink found the poor prospector's bones and a little bag full of rich gold quartz, and and later another prospector found what was left of the poor rat's outfit at Blackwater Tanks.

"The old prospector had found this lode within striking distance of Blackwater Tanks, and Colorado and Bruce, if that's who he is, must have a danged good notion where it is, else why would Colorado go into that country this dry time av year an' why would he lie to me like he did about where they was goin'?"

Tongee Medicine Ends Many Ills

Great Physicians' Formula Goes To Very Source of Common Ailments; Tongee Man Talks

Men and women in all walks of life are visiting The Tongee Man at Stump and Sams drug store, Marion, to hear his personal explanation of the great physicians' formula of nature's finest medical juices, known at Tongee.

THE TONGEE MAN

Countless modern people, regardless of their wealth and position, are suffering the same common ailments that arise from an unhealthy inner-system, due to disordered stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.

"Human suffering," said the Tongee Man yesterday, "afflicts the great and wealthy the same as it afflicts the mass of people. At last, the public can get a medicine that is doing everything claimed for it, because Tongee goes to the very source of common ailments, by natural means.

"One of the first cases in which Tongee was used was kidney trouble—getting up frequently at nights. The man who took it came back the fourth day and said he had slept all through the previous night. We learned afterward that he had been doctoring over ten years for his trouble. In one case a man was crippled with rheumatism and poisoned kidneys. He hadn't left the vicinity of his home for two years. He completed four weeks' treatment of Tongee and said he walked a distance of nearly a mile. This of course, was several weeks after he completed Tongee. From this case it was determined that the medicine should do wonders for neuritis. One woman who had tried nearly everything for this trouble said that five bottles of Tongee had completely ended every ache and pain. She had previously taken mineral baths, electric treatments and medicine upon medicine, with little or no benefit. All of these are actual cases.

"Another woman was treated with Tongee for stomach trouble. She said in five years she had spent several thousand dollars trying to regain her health, but shortly after she had started with Tongee she could eat heartily of many foods she hadn't dared to touch before. She continued with Tongee six weeks, and came back later saying that she felt ten years younger. Her appearance certainly showed it. One lady declared that Tongee had done her more good than four years of special dieting. She had taken this medicine for nervousness and general weakness."

When Tongee is taken into the human system, each root and herb extract has certain duties to perform on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and it is the cleansing and invigorating of these functionary organs that brings such amazing relief to sufferers.

The Tongee Man is at Stump and Sams Drug Store, Marion, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy.—Adv.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

YESTERDAY was Sunday, and when me and Jubilee woke up we laid for a long time thinking about how mistaken a little boy can be sometimes when he thinks he is being bright and is doing a kind deed. We thought when we were painting Mr. Wagmore's terrace that we were doing something he would be proud of, but we weren't. A boy ought to ast questions before he does anything, but grownups are so funny that if a boy always waited to ast questions before he done anything he would never do anything.

When I had thought that out I pushed Jubilee out of bed and then got his rope and let him down, and then I put on my short britches and went down to milk the cows and came in the house again to feed my face and get washed, and Wagmores were over after I went to bed Saturday night, and my folks knew all about the white paint on the terrace, and they all thought it was a good joke. My mother said she never saw anyone laugh so hard as Mr. and Mrs. Wagmore did about our paint job. It is a good thing they laughed about it, because if they hadn't laughed I would have cried. All fathers are like that.

When my ant was washing me and chasing my features around my face with the washrag I told her she ought to have had the job of scrubbing the paint off of Mr. Wagmore's terrace. She said if she had the job of raising me there wouldn't have been any paint on Mr. Wagmores terrace. That's one job I am glad she hasn't got. I think she would like to raise me with her foot.

The girls stood and watched me getting washed. They ought to be ashamed of themselves. But girls haven't got no shame. I said I was sorry the circus had been and went, and Feeble said she wouldn't miss the circus as long as she could come to our house Sunday mornings and see me get washed. She has certainly got a mean disposition.

The bunch all went to the pasture together, and every time Dusty would do anything or try to get funny some of us would tell him to go climb a tree. But I am sure glad the bunch happened along last Friday when he did climb a tree. The girls went home with me at noon to eat some strawberry shortcake, and after that we got some ice cream with crushed strawberries on it in tall glasses, and Feeble was talking to Annabelle Lee and didn't notice that she knocked her glass over. It fell against her napkin on the edge of the plate and didn't make a noise, and all the ice cream slid out of it into her lap, and we were all watching her, and all at once she looked surprised, and then she gave a yell and a jump and went over backwards. I told her I wouldn't miss a circus while she was around. My mother gave her some more ice cream in a saucer. A saucer is hard to tip over.

Today was Monday and we played ball all day. If it hadn't been for the girls we could have went swimming.

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

Mary Drives Noel Almost to Distraction.

"SHAKESPEARE, Byron and Whitman," Mary repeated when Avis Arlen had declared those to be her "favorite poets." Her face was thoughtful as if she were comparing the merits of the authors Miss Arlen had named, but I saw Noel give a distinct squirm, and knew that he recognized the subtle amusement which Mary was concealing behind her apparently interested face.

"That's a good hand to hold," she went on, and there was something in her voice which would have raised blisters upon a more sensitive epidermis than that of Avis Arlen. "If they aren't exactly three of a kind, each of 'em packs a good kick, if you get the right chapters. And Noel ought to be right in his element spouting the 'Good Gray Poet.' You'll have to let me hear you sometime, Noel. I'd love it."

The "Poetry Book"

Noel tried to keep his face composed but his annoyance was too great. I think it was given him in that moment to know that if he were married to Mary 50 years, reading Whitman aloud, would be held in reserve by her as a pickled rod whenever she thought he needed a bit of humorous marital discipline. But such is the perversity of masculinity, that I knew he was far more annoyed at Avis Arlen for betraying his Summer preoccupation with poetry, than he was with Mary, for making game of it—something patent to any eyes less blinded with egotism than those of Avis Arlen.

"Mary," he protested unhappily. "You——" But Mary did not let him finish the sentence.

"Have you the 'poetry-book' with you?" she asked, accenting the noun with delicate malice. "If you have, perhaps you might let me listen in."

It did not seem possible to me that any girl could be so stupid, so eaten up with self-conceit, as not to realize the irony in Mary's voice. But that she took the appeal in perfectly good faith, as a tribute to her power over Noel was manifest in the ineffably condescending smile which wreathed her lips as she looked at Mary.

"Oh! I'd love to have you join us, wouldn't you, No-el?" She made two syllables of his name with a lingering, caressing accent on the last, that I knew must make Mary's fingers tingle with a desire to clutch and tear at the blonde curls opposite her. "But I haven't 'Leaves of Grass' with me. It's out in the car."

"Couldn't Noel fetch it?" Mary asked with sweet demureness.

"No, I couldn't," Noel's voice had the effect of a subdued growl. And Avis Arlen put a protecting hand on his arm.

"Never mind the book," she said soothingly, "Just sit down and talk to Avis."

"Noel's awfully good at that," Mary's voice was that of a proud mother sounding the praises of her offspring. "But I think you're foolish to waste this wonderful new record Hank!" She caught the arm of her younger brother, who had edged close to the little group, and was staring at Avis Arlen in awed admiration, "Strut your stuff now, and show big sister what Worcester has done for you."

She whirled her brother off into the dance, and I saw Avis Arlen's eyes follow her for a moment in the appraisal which every girl makes of the points of any new feminine acquaintance. I wondered if she were keen enough to perceive the unusual, professional quality of Mary's dance steps through the concessions she was making to Hank's distinctly schoolboy attempts to "lead." But I soon saw that her mental equipment was not equal to that deduction, for, after watching Mary and Hank for a few seconds a satisfied little smile curved her lips, and with a murmured word to Noel, she stood up, with the patent wish to dance.

That Noel's innate courtesy was having a battle with his inclinations was plain even to me across the room. But he made no demur, and as their feet caught the tempo of the dance, Avis Arlen's arm slid up and curved around his neck while she swayed toward him in the close embrace which the more daring of the younger set have affected.

Did Mary Realize the Truth?

As I watched her, I knew what I had suspected, that she had one lure, or thought she had, and in Dicky's parlance "worked it overtime." Never, for a single second, did she meet any man, young or old, or talk to him, without keeping her feminity directly before him, shelving every other issue. For her purpose, of attracting attention to herself, and making other girls in her vicinity appear to be less popular with men, it was most effective. I wondered if any of the men she thus attracted, ever experienced any lasting emotion for her. Noel's restiveness under her assumed ownership was as evident as the fact that for a time during the summer, he had been a distinct dangler in her train.

Did Mary realize the truth? I wondered, or did that clinging, curving arm around Noels neck, that rapt look upon the face lifted to his strengthen her suspicion which I knew had come to her upon the receipt of Noel's letter, that her sweetheart was hers no longer, but had fallen under the sway of Avis Arlen?

FIGHT AT CLEVELAND WILL DRAW $400,000

Schmeling and Stribling Conclude Training for Heavyweight Championship Bout.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., June 29—The Stribling-Schmeling world's heavyweight championship fight dedicating Cleveland's new $3,000,000 municipal stadium next Friday night will be no million dollar affair, but if it draws $400,000 there will be no wails of protest from the promoters.

This was indicated today when officials of the Madison Square Garden Corporation of Ohio declared they would be "extremely satisfied" if the gate receipts hit the $400,000 mark. Figures revealed for the first time showed $176,000 in cash already in the bank, with $89,000 to be added in reservations certain to be picked up.

Although the advance sale is actually $176,000, the total advance, counting the reservations, amounts to $265,000, thus assuring financial success for the fight. The promoters hope to dispose of another $150,000 worth of tickets between now and Friday.

If the fight draws $300,000 which it already seems assured the Madison Square Garden Corporation will have a profit of approximately $51,000. Stribling and Schmeling will get 52½ per cent, with the champion receiving 40 per cent of this amount. The sum of $22,000 will be paid to the city for the rental of the stadium and $14,000 will be spent in providing preliminaries. The corporation will also spend $18,000 in installing seats and another $40,000 in promotion.

Both Stribling and the champion were resting today, their hard training finished. Except for a little boxing tomorrow night Stribling finished his five weeks training grind last night with four rounds of boxing, another round of shadow boxing, and still another punching the heavy bag. After hitting the showers, Stribling jumped on the scales and tipped the beam at 188 pounds.

Schmeling worked out before a large crowd, at Conneaut Lake Park. His work was impressive and heartily satisfactory to his handlers. The German boxed four rounds. Schmeling set a burning pace.

It was "German send-off day" and old timers day crowded into one. German-Americans from this part of Ohio and western Pennsylvania were on hand to give him a hand.

The referee question was the important issue today, with the Cleveland boxing commission meeting to make its decision on the third man in the ring and the judges. Dick Dunn, representnig the Madison Square Garden Corporation of Ohio, intends to appear before the commissioners and demand that the officials be named before tonight. In some quarters it was reported that Tommy McGinty, Cleveland sports promoter, would be chosen as referee, but that his selection may be withheld officially until the day of the contest, although some of the commissioners are reported to favor making the announcement at once. Other reports were that Geore Blake of Los Angeles, noted boxing instructor and manager of Field La Barba, featherweight champion tender, would be chosen as the referee.

BROOKLYN ROBINS HIT STRIDE; DEFEAT CARDINALS 10 TO 4

Lose One Game in Two Weeks; Cleveland Loses to Yankees.

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Brooklyn Robins, who surprised National league fandom by their splendid showing last season, have had a hard time since then trying to live up to the predictions made about them.

About two weeks ago, the Robins began to hit their best stride. Since then they have lost only one game and that was a "hard luck" contest.

The Robins looked like champions yesterday as they easily trounced St. Louis 10 to 4 Ancient Adolfo Luque gave 10 hits and kept them from doing any harm and thus became the seventh Brooklyn pitcher to go the route in 10 games.

The defeat cut the Cards' margin to 1½ games before the start of a series with the second place New York Giants. The New Yorkers clouted the Cincinnati Reds for a double victory yesterday. Winning the first game 17 to 5, and the second clash 5 to 2

The Boston Braves completed their conquest of the Chicago Cubs by slamming out a 9 to 1 victory in the first half of a double header while Ed Brandt pitched a seven-hit game to score his tenth victory of the season. Wally Berger provided the second game feature as the Braves came from behind to earn a 2-2 tie just before the Sunday 6 o'clock law halted the game. He started two double plays from center field. Pittsburgh and Philadelphia were idle

The St Louis Browns continued their amazing winning streak in the American league by taking two 5 to 4 decisions from the Boston Red Sox. It gave them a record of eight straight victories and 11 in their last 12 games.

Philadelphia's Athletics increased their margin over Washington to 2½ games by winning two games from Detroit while the Senators could get only an even break in two mound duels with the Chicago White Sox. Roy Mahaffey held the Tigers to five hits to win the first game for the A's 9 to 1, while George Walberg gave them only four to gain a 5 to 1 victory in the second. Al Thomas of Chicago bested Bob Burke of Wahington in the opener to win 2 to 1. Each gave six hits. The Senators used some Chicago errors for a start toward a 3-1 triumph in the second game as Brown and Crowder held the Sox to four hits

Babe Ruth hit his seventeenth home run and Ben Chapman stole his twenty-eighth base for the New York Yankees and the combination helped considerably to bring a 9 to 5 victory over Cleveland. Willis Hudlin shut out the Yanks for six innings then Wes Ferrell stepped in just in time to be charged with the defeat.

Leaders Face Tough Sledding as Teams Start Second Half of Recreation Sked

BY KARL E. McELROY

With the 32 teams of Marion's four recreation ball leagues entering the final round of play this week, leaders are not so confident of their ability to weather the storm which started brewing last week.

Among the leaders to feel the blow of defeat were the Kappas and Prospect of the Commercial league, C. D. & M. of the Industrial group, Calvary of the first church bases, Comorosky, Pirates, 9; Cuyler the second church loop.

Three of these teams were eliminated from the leadership—Kappas, Prospect and Presbyterians. The C., D. & M. and Huber nines are tied for first place in their league while Calvary remained a full game out in front of the first church loop players.

St. Paul, the head man team of the second church loop, will face tough sledding tonight when it plays Forest Lawn. Unless the Presbyterian nine rallies it may drop from a second place tie when it meets Christian No. 1. The Christian Seniors, another second placer team, is expected to take it easy with the United Brethren.

Two rounds will be played in the first church league this week. The league leading Calvary nine plays Epworth Seniors Tuesday night and Trinity Wednesday. Trinity is in second place and should give the leaders a real battle.

The electric company entry in the Industrial league may take another nose dive in its game Thursday night with the Gasco nine Although the Gasco team is down in third place it has lost some mighty tough battles and is due to get a few of the breaks. If the Gascos win Huber is likely to step into the lead as its game with the C. & O. is not expected to offer anything serious in the way of opposition

Serv-U-Wel is expected to stay in first place of the Commercial league while the Erie Traffic club will have a hard time with the hard hitting Prospect Firemen. The grocers will play Co. B. The Kappas will meet Wesley Juniors in a game that is practically on the books as a win for the fraternity lads.

Losers Tie Score in Ninth; Baldauf Crosses Plate Twice for Locals.

Marion moved up a half a game in the rural county baseball league here yesterday afternoon by defeating Sunbury after a hard battle, 5 to 4.

Taking an early lead by scoring in the third inning, Marion dropped behind in the fourth when Sunbury counted three. Marion scored another in its half of the third

The fifth and sixth frames found both teams going scoreless while in the seventh Marion scored two runs. Sunbury put up a tough battle and tied the score in the ninth only to see the game lost as Marion scored in its half of the inning.

Baldauf scored two runs to lead the Marion batters while Rogers accounted for two of his team's points.

NATIONAL OPEN GOLF TOURNEY TO START THURSDAY IN TOLEDO

Biggest Prize of American Game; Retirement of Jones Boosts Interest.

By The Associated Press

TOLEDO, O, June 29—Old home week is here at last for the long-suffering golf professionals. A National Open championship is on and a certain young amateur named Bobby Jones no longer haunts their dreams of winning the grandest prize of American golf.

Jones' threatening shadow has been lifted from the field at last, and the tonic of his retirement from the big show has seized the imaginations of the pros. imagination of the pros. They all have become fired with new hopes to win the coveted crown.

To anyone who has followed the National Open struggles for the past decade the change can easily be noticed. Instead of the muttered question "Who's going to beat Bobby?" the question today was "Who's going to win?" It was a wide open fight and the lost subdued professional iron wielders could be seen almost everywhere—on the golf course, hotel lobbies, and street corners—seriously discussing every pitfall on the championship Inverness layout as if they were going to win this time

Several amateurs were entered in the 72-hole championship battle which opens Thursday and ends Saturday over the trouble-festered Inverness course, but none of them was granted even an outside chance.

If any one professional was singled out of the field of 146 to beat, he was Tommy Armour of Detroit, the present "Bobby Jones of the Pros" The championship course will be won by the player who can hit straight tee shots and play his irons, and Armour can do them both, especially the latter.

England and America as well, will contribute serious contenders for the vacated throne. All 10 Ryder cup players on both teams have entered the fray with Walter Hagen, Gene Sarazen, Densmore Shute, Johnny Farrell, Leo Diegel, Al Espinosa and Billie Burke the big contenders from the American team, and Arthur Havers, W. H. Davies, Abe Mitchell and Charles Whitcombe, the hopes of the British team. Henry Cotton, who was ousted from the British team because of his refusal to travel with his mates, was perhaps their biggest threat. The Young Briton has been at Inverness for a week drilling steadily.

Playgrounds Hum as 250 Boys Enjoy Activities

The end of the first week of playground activity of the Y. M. C. A. finds a total enrollment of more than 250 boys at the three ground at Lincoln park, Marion Steam Shovel grounds on Uncapher avenue and on Willow avenue.

Numerous activities have been arranged for the boys and evidently are proving popular. Saturday morning at Lincoln park and the Willow avenue grounds, and Friday at the steam shovel, baseball throwing contests were held as part of the inter-playground tournament being held between the three playgrounds during the entire 10 weeks they are to be open. This competition is in the form of weekly athletic contests to be held at each ground, and to be completed with a joint meet at the end of the season with all three grounds taking part. The winning playground is to be determined by the highest average in both the weekly contests and the final meet.

The winners in the ball throwing contest among the older boys at the steam shovel park were Dwight Ruby, first, with a mark of 224 feet, nine inches, Gerald Perwinger second with 202 feet, and Clarence Primmer third with 187 feet, 10 inches. The winners in the younger boys class were Gerald Wynn, first, 119 feet, 9 inches and William Moore, second with 116 feet and 7 inches.

At the Willow street ground, Wilbur Evans won the younger boys' event, with a throw of 171 feet. Merle Peacock was second with 158 feet, and Vernon Parish took third place with a distance of 155 feet. Ted Kull, of the older boys, threw the ball for a distance of 212 feet

Wallace Conkle won the throwing contest for the older boys at Lincoln Park Saturday morning with 197 feet, five inches with Leonard Harbolt second with 191 feet, one inch, and Earl Vanscoy third with 181 feet, three inches Albert Slack gave a talk at this ground on "Character Building"

In baseball games at the Willow avenue site, Merle Peacock's team won both their games, Cyril Bryant's winning one and losing one, Eugene Rice's team also winning one and losing one, and Wilbur Evan's team losing both games Fifty-nine boys are now enrolled at this playground, 41 younger boys and 18 of the older group.

Playground councils are to be elected next week at all grounds, the duty of these councils being to assist the director in the various activities. The councils elected will serve for a period of three weeks when new selections will be made At the Steam Shovel and Lincoln park the councils will consist of eight members, while at the site on Willow avenue, seven members will be chosen.

In three weeks the awarding of the playground cap emblems will be made, and the boys are now working for their emblems in addition to the games and contests being held.

C. AND I. LOWER ARE INTRODUCING PSORIASIS NO. 3 FOR SKIN TROUBLES

Now to the list of famous Lower Prescriptions is added another reliable product of proven merit in the treatment of a wide variety of common skin ailments.

Commenting on the handicaps placed on those victims of facial acne, pimples, blackheads, etc., in their social and business life, C. Lower points out that many skin ailments still continue to baffle medical science in thwarting complete cures. Psoriasis No. 3 in a test period extending over the past eighteen months during which time over 500 bottles have been placed in use, has demonstrated that it will hasten the elimination or check skin disturbances that have hitherto defied other remedies. The great majority need suffer no longer from skin ailments, Psoriasis No. 3 will bring them relief. It is particularly effective in bad cases of psoriasis, eczema, salt rheum, pimples and acne.

To further acquaint our customer with the qualities of Psoriasis No. 3 we will give free a $1.00 bottle to those who will clip out this advertisement and present it at our stores. Effective June 29th to August 1st, 1931.

Deer Become Menace to Forests of State

By International News Service

HARRISBURG, Pa.—Deer, in some sections of Pennsylvania, are getting so numerous they are becoming a menace to state forests and to themselves, according to field studies made by the state department of forests and waters. From 20 to 40 deer are plenty for each 1,000 acres of Pennsylvania forest, the studies indicate.

Forests of the state, it is pointed out once abounded in big game but the problem of over-population was taken care of by predatory animals, now vanished, lack of hunting restrictions, forest fires and other natural causes. Forty years ago, a deer in its native haunts was rare in Pennsylvania.

RISE OF STOCK PRICES HALTED

Declines Come Today as Market Awaits News on War Debt Question.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 29—The stock market [illegible]ked up a little in quiet trading today as Wall street took time to consider how far the advance of the last seven sessions had gone toward bringing values into line with the more cheerful sentiment which has swept the financial markets.

[illegible] of about 2 to 6 points appeared as traders took profits, on the theory that the advance may have been a little too rapid. News from the Franco-American negotiations in Paris was anxiously awaited and in the meantime the markets lacked further impetus toward higher levels. In contrast to an almost steady decline in Wall street the European markets had intervals of strength, but showed narrow changes at the close.

Decline Is General

Although trading was quiet, the decline was broad, embracing a wide range of coppers, steels, rails, chemicals, utilities and miscellaneous shares. Issues closing about three to five points included American Telephone, U. S. Steel, American Can, Kennecott, Allied Chemical, Eastman, Johns Manville, Consolidated Gas, Union Pacific, New York Central and Atchison. Losses of a point or two appeared throughout the list. The market hardened a little in the early afternoon, but soon softened again.

While Wall street awaited developments from Paris, bankers pointed to further pressure against the German mark as indicative of the need for speedy action. The Reichsbank has experienced a further seepage of reserves, both Saturday and today. The $100,000,000 cooperative credit, however, is expected to take care of the July 1 credit requirements, and federal reserve authorities explained that if further credits are needed, the New York federal reserv bank might make further purchases of Reichsbank acceptances.

Despite the sharp reductions of dividends by American companies, Wall street estimates the midyear interest and dividend payments, much of which will be met this week, at between $800,000,000 and $900,000,000.

GRAINS SCORE SHARP GAINS

Action of President, High Temperatures Bring Reaction to Market.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 29—Sharply higher prices for all grains early today resulted from President Hoover's intervention with the farm board and from widespread temperatures exceeding 100. Wheat crop damage in Canada and parts of the Dakotas and Montana was reported the worst ever known in regard to the large amount of acreage past recovery. Opening ⅛@1⅛ cents up, wheat afterward continued to mount. Corn started ⅛@⅝ higher and jumped further with oats almost outdoing the season's top record.

Wheat prices upturns, although quickly responsive to President Hoover's action in obtaining reconsideration of the farm board's refusal to make a change of sales' policy, were less abrupt than advances in corn and oats. The wheat market had still to contend with the fact that any new course of farm board was dependent upon a survey not yet complete, but promised by July 1. Corn and oats, however, were influenced in addition by advices of severe hot weather injury to oats and by anxiety lest corn suffer repetition of last season's drouth disaster.

Big general trading in all grains carried prices upward as the day advanced, and oats especially went soaring. Heavy profit-taking sales failed to act as an offset, and December oats soon overtopped the season's highest price levels, rising more than three cents a bushel over Saturday's close. Meanwhile, corn was up more than 10 cents from its recent low point. Wheat on ocean passage showed 5,512,000 bushels decrease for the week.

Provisions were easier, owing to setbacks in hog values.

TUBES CARRY MAIL AT HIGH SPEED

By International News Service

NEW YORK—Not one person in 10,000 realizes that every day millions of letters are shot at high speed between the main and branch postoffices of New York through arteries running on an average of four feet underneath the city's streets. This unique service makes it possible for anyone to mail a letter in uptown New York in the morning and have it received in Wall Street—miles away—within a few hours. Some service!

But if one will visit the general postoffice or any of its branches, one may see mail clerks shooting long "torpedoes" filled with mail into steel chutes which lead into iron pipes through which the steel carriers whiz at high velocity under the pressure of compressed air. Seventeen hundred new carriers will go into New York's pneumatic tube system in July.

Description of Carriers

Each carrier is 22 inches long and seven inches in diameter. It resembles a long, thin milk can and carries between 500 and 600 letters. The iron tube through which the carrier races to its destination consists of 12-foot long sections of pipe. Change of direction in the tube is accomplished by sections of tube bent to a long radius to permit the containers to slide along without reduction in speed. Friction is reduced by special devices.

Well built as they are, the carriers, each weighing about 20 pounds, must be replaced after they have gone some 2,000,000 miles in Uncle Sam's underground postal service in New York. The tubes form a continuous circuit of Manhattan up and down both sides of the island. They also run across the Brooklyn Bridge servicing a large area of Brooklyn with five miles of tubes.

Large Daily Mileage

Every day of the year the mail carriers travel a distance of 150,000 miles beneath Gotham's busy streets. They are in operation 20 hours out of the 24 and their speed is 44 feet per second. Whew! The flying carriers, choked with mail, are impelled through the tubes by a column of air which exerts a pressure of about five pounds per square inch, the air being provided by huge blowers in the basements of the postoffices.

Each postoffice on the pneumatic-tube line is equipped with a receiving and sending apparatus, commonly called a "receiver" and "transmitter." At 10-second intervals between departures a transmitter will dispatch six carriers per minute or 360 per hour. Since each carrer will hold between 500 and 600 letters, the rate per dispatching machine one way is 180,000 letters an hour. But there are 50 dispatching machines in the New York system and their total capacity on a 10-second headway, if all were continuously occupied, would be 9,000,000 letters per hour.

Originated in England

The transmission of written dispatches through long narrow tubes by the agency of air pressure was first practically introduced in England in 1853. Pneumatic mail distribution has been conducted underground both in America and Europe for many years and still remains the most rapid and efficient system for the speedy transfer of mail in large cities. Berlin, Paris and London all have efficient pneumatic mail systems underground, in addition to New York's wonderfully speedy plan.

FARMHOUSE BURNS NEAR BRUSH RIDGE

Home of Harry Payton Destroyed by Fire Saturday Night.

Special to The Star

MORRAL, June 29—Fire, believed to have been caused by sparks from the chimney, destroyed the large frame farmhouse on the Harry Payton farm on the Upper Sandusky road, near Brush Ridge, Saturday night shortly after 10.

The blaze was discovered by persons passing in an automobile who notified Mr. Payton, the only member of the family at home at the time. Neighbors responded to a call for assistance and furniture on the first floor was carried to safety. Bedding and furniture on the second floor of the building were destroyed.

The loss, which is estimated at about $3,500 is partially covered with insurance. The house was a two-story frame building.

Mrs. Payton and her son were in Marion whên the fire broke out.

LAUDS GOVERNMENT OF CHINESE NATION

Physician Comments on Nationalist Rule After Long Residence in Orient.

By International News Service

ST. LOUIS—"The Chinese Nationalist government is by far the best government the Chinese ever had. All of its officers are men with Occidental education who are genuinely interested in their country and have its good at heart."

That is the way Dr. Anna Walter Fearn, for thirty-eight years a physician in China, described the nationalist government in speaking before the St. Louis Medical society here.

Political union in all China is impossible, however, because of its vast area, its vast heterogenous population and its lack of modern means of transportation and communication, she said.

"It is a polygot country with a different dialect for every village and for each of its 1,000 cities, despite the fact its written language is universal," she declared.

Communication is so slow, she continued that in 1925 an earthquake in Gansu destroyed hundreds of thousands of lives but the news of it did not reach Peking until three months later, even though the latter city was only 1,500 miles away.

Airplanes and Jimmy Yens schools, which teach an alphabet of only 1,000 characters, are looked to to provide better and more rapid means of communication, she said.

Stewardship Is Theme of Union Church Services

Presbyterian Pastor Delivers Sermon for First of Summer Series, Held at Prospect M. E. Church; Choir Sings.

Basing his sermon on the statement, "Stewardship is the fundamental basis upon which life rests," and upon the text, Luke 12:33, "So, therefore whosoever he be of you that renounceth not all that he hath, he cannot be my disciple," Rev. H. L. Olewiler, pastor of First Presbyterian church, preached the first Sunday night union service sermon last night at the Prospect Street M. E. church.

The church was filled for the sermon which was augmented with the invocation and benediction by the pastor, Rev. Karl W. Patow, and music by the congregation and choir

Continuing from the opening statement on stewardship, Rev. Olewiler said in part:

God's Gifts

"God is creator and owner of all things and man is the steward, trustee and administrator. Nothing belongs to man. Talents, opportunities, abilities, wealth and resources are the gifts of God's creative will and are bestowed upon man, not for self, for personal profit, but for the good of the community and kingdom of God.

"Therefore if one wishes to realize the full significance of life and live it in its highest sense, first he must renounce personal ownership and live the life of a steward. Here we discover the meaning of discipleship. To become a disciple of Christ, man must renounce ownership of self and all that he posses. This is the outstanding credential of discipleship.

Pursue Selfish Ends

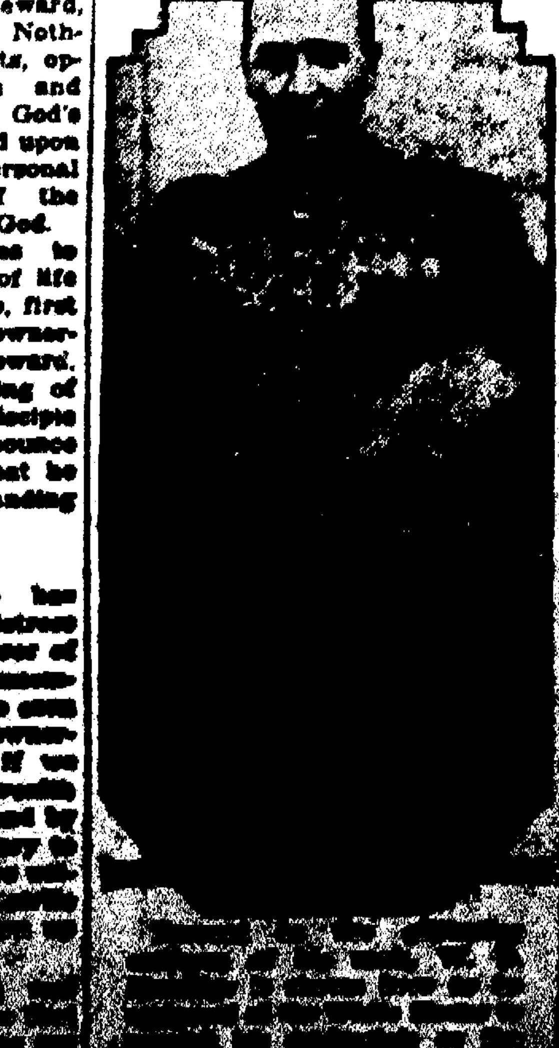

"Our idea of ownership has created the confusion and distress of the present hour. The terror of Communism and revolution, unemployment refusing the right to earn bread is due to our idea of ownership. We live and act as if we are the sole owners, and use wealth and talents for selfish ends, and by so doing we are living contrary to [illegible]

[illegible] we shall live in harmony with the basic law of existence.

"When we are born from above, when we are touched by the power of the Holy Spirit, stewardship will be a reality. And if we desire to avert another bloody contest, stewardship must be applied. Renounce ownership and use the gifts of God for the social good. If we turn away from the truth of stewardship, if we miss this conception of life we build falsely and all of life rests upon a wrong foundation and chaos, uncertainty and rebellion ensue."

PARTY LEADERS EYE POLITICAL POT

By International News Service

WASHINGTON — Tis said a watched pot never boils, but the ancient adage has a modern contradiction.

If pots can be transferred from their culinary associations to the world of politics, there is one particular piece of pottery which is being anxiously scrutinized and yet there's no doubt about it being ready to break forth into a lusty boil any moment.

But ignoring musty adages for 1931 facts, among them the one that the national political conventions of the Democratic an Republican parties are only a comparatively short distance away, one cannot escape how eagerly, nay, apprehensively, three leaders of the Democratic faith are watching the simmerings in the old pot of politics

"Legs of Kettle"

They might even be likened to the familiar trio of stubby, yet strong legs upon which great kettles, usually pictured as political pots, stand. The burning question is which of the Democratic triumverate composed of Gov Franklin D. Roosevelt, Alfred E Smith and John J. Raskob is the strongest pillar underneath the party structure. Whoever is victor will be able to flavor the porridge being brewed by the Jeffersonians to his own taste.

Mr. Roosevelt, as the only one of the three actually holding an elective office, that of governor of New York, has the advantage which sure an office always gives Mr. Raskob, however, as Democratic national chairman, holds a strategic position within the party which cannot be overestimated And Al Smith, standard-bearer of 1928, and broadcaster of considerable personal magnetism, is still exceptionally popular and powerful

Seems Disturbed

While Governor Roosevelt appears to be indifferent as to what former Governor Smith proposes to do about 1932 Al's continued silence on the fateful subject is said to be disturbing the Empire State executive Some are wont to say that in the absence of any word to the contrary, Governor Roosevelt, who thrice presented Mr Smith's name to national conventions, must proceed on the assumption that Mr. Smith wants the Democratic Presidential nomination for himself and nobody else.

With Roosevelt and Smith treading the hot sands of uncertainty, Mr Raskob is credited with holding the key to the entire situation. Rooseveltites are arguing that Mr Smith is under obligation to Mr Raskob and therefore if the national chairman wants him to become the companion of his wet theories, it is incumbent upon Mr Smith to seek the nomination.

Raskob's Plans

Mr Roosevelt's supporters are convinced that none but the 1928 standard-bearers can meet the dripping wet views of Mr Raskob and they add to their worry by professing to foresee that Mr. Raskob is so anxious that he will go to any lengths to nail them down on the Democratic party platform.

As the political pot continues to simmer along, maybe some of the troubles besetting the leading trio of the Democratic party will be boiled out and disappear into thin air, even as does steam.
